Court Officials Charge Corporations Snatch Service Checks.

ONE MAN FIRED AFTER ACCEPTING JURY DUTY

Employers Tell Women They Need Not Accept Call to Trials.

AUTHORITIES HOPING CONGRESS WILL ACT

Many Ask Judges to Excuse Them, Saying They Fear Loss of Jobs.

Charges that certain firms and corporations in Washington are intimidating employees called for jury service are being compiled by courthouse officials, and are expected to be transmitted to the proper authorities within a short time, it was learned yesterday.

Ultimately, it is hoped that the facts will reach Congress and that remedial legislation will immediately result.

The most startling of the charges are: That the firms and corporations force employees who accept service as jurors to turn over the Government checks they receive.

That one man holding a responsible position in one of Washington's leading firms was summarily dismissed when, after he had served on a jury, he refused to tender the check to his employer.

Women's Checks Taken. That firms and corporations are employing a number of women eligible for jury duty represent to them that they do not have to serve as jurors. In this instance, too, one of the women held over the women is that they must surrender their Government checks in order to keep their positions. This is believed to be the point that has most infuriated the officials of the District Supreme Court, and Police Court, since in most instances the Government checks for a pair of a week's jury service represent more than the women would earn at their employment.

Court officials also are infuriated, especially in the District Supreme Court, by the fact that most of the firms and corporations have civil cases in the court, and when a verdict is against them, their attorneys are loudest in their criticism of the caliber of the jurors of the District.

Attention to this effort of employers to prevent employees from serving on the jury has been called to the notice of court officials in the past. Those, however, were just isolated cases. Now, it is said, the practice is more or less widespread.

Loss of Jobs. Recently there have been a number of pleas from persons called for jury duty to the effect that if they serve they will lose their jobs. They say they are; that they will be forced to surrender the checks they draw for such service; that they will lose their jobs.

In a number of instances, women seeking to be excused from jury duty have declared that their employers told them that they did not have to serve. In most cases, however, the women make other inquiries, and that viewpoint is corrected.

Courthouse officials, including Chief Justice Walter L. McCoy and the other justices, take pride in the present jury system of the District. The Chief Justice, from the bench, has often remarked that the caliber of the jurors of the District is not to be equaled anywhere in the United States.

Credit Due to Justice. Much of the credit for the present jury system in the District is due to the chief justice. It has been more or less of a fetish with him, particularly since the jury shadowing scandals of several years ago.

Many officials hope that the report will be compiled prior to the chief justice's retirement early next month. They would like to have an expression from him regarding the situation.

However, whether the report, when completed, will be submitted to the chief justice, all the justices or to the United States attorney could not be learned.

No Criminal Action. It is said that the report shows evidence of coercion, extortion and even interference with justice. However, it is not believed that any criminal action will result. There is a possibility that the report may be submitted to the grand jury in the hope that a presentation may be forthcoming. It is a matter, which is said to effect the judicial system of the District, as well as the jury system, and it is believed that the publicity which will result, should the grand jury return a presentment.

Hoovers Lead Nation In Thanksgiving Rites

Presidential Party to Attend Methodist Services, Pan-American Envoys at St. Patrick's; Bishop to Preach at Cathedral

Its leaders well stocked, preparatory to a bounteous repast: its homes filled with a happy and contented people, the City of Washington was ready today to give thanks for the blessings of a year in a series of services arranged to give the devout of every faith opportunity of worshiping and expressing their gratitude.

Before and after the many periods of religious service which are scheduled during the day a majority of the Capital's more than 800,000 residents is planning some sort of recreation, taking advantage of the holiday which Thanksgiving brings each year.

Cloudy and colder weather was the prediction of the United States Weather Bureau, but this forecast was not expected to reduce the attendance at any of the union or church services nor to cut into the size of crowds at any of the many recreational features of the day, including football games and theater. President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, together with their son, Allan, who returned to Washington yesterday from Cambridge, Mass., to spend the holiday at the White House, planned to attend special services in the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, John Marshall place and C street northwest, in the morning; take an automobile ride in the afternoon and sit down to a turkey dinner at 5 o'clock in the evening. Only a few friends will be present at this dinner.

A dozen Methodist Episcopal churches are cooperating in the union service which the presidential party will attend and Bishop William F. McDowell will preach the sermon. Chief among the city's Thanksgiving services which are embellished with the pomp and dignity of long years of standing as part of the city's Thanksgiving observance, is the annual Pan-American mass, principal service of the Catholics of Washington, which will be held in St. Patrick's Church, Tenth and G streets northwest at 10 o'clock.

This mass, marked by the attendance of the diplomatic corps of Pan-America, is a traditional service, ever attracting more than capacity congregations. The Most Rev. Pietro Puzosanti-Blondi, papal nuncio, and Archbishop Curley, of Baltimore, will preside, while the Rev. Dr. John R. Carwright, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, will preach.

Other noted figures of the church will participate in the service. The Right Rev. John M. McNamara, of St. Gabriel's Church, auxiliary bishop in the Baltimore diocese, will be celebrant of the mass and the Rev. Charles R. O'Hara, of St. John's Church, at Rockville, Md., will be assistant priest. The Rev. Joseph P. McEldowney, of St. Ignace, will be co-celebrant.

SUCCESSFUL PARLEY HOPE OF MACDONALD

Continued Efforts Will Lead to Eventual Disarmament, His Belief.

London, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Admitting that numerous difficulties will confront the five-power naval conference when it opens here in January, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today expressed his belief that these would be overcome and that success would crown the efforts of those seeking reduction in the armaments of the world.

He spoke at a tea in the House of Commons which was attended by representatives of various British peace organizations, Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Secretary of State, and Mrs. Kellogg, Miss Isabel MacDonald, Prof. Gilbert Murray and Norman Fendell, author and lecturer. The prime minister brushed the "difficulties" aside, declaring, "we will not be afraid." Summing up his attitude, he said, "I am neither a pessimist nor an optimist. I believe that good is going to come out of faithful, sincere, and earnest work religiously stuck to, work that is not going to be thwarted or clouded by temporary difficulties or rebuffs, and work which is returned to again and again. If one way does not yield results we will try another, always sticking, sticking, sticking to the work."

"There are always two ways of trying to get to a goal. One way is to make perfectly certain that in approaching the goal you do not fall down halfway there, puffed and unable to go on. The other way is to so conserve your strength and your opportunities that you get there before you cease to be effective. In diplomacy that is a good experience to remember."

"We will have a great many difficulties but, as we have faced, how difficulties before, we will still face them in the five-power conference."

Referring to the presence of Kellogg, Mr. MacDonald said: "I am sure that the presence of Mr. Kellogg will be a great help to us."

Acting Commissioner of Foreign Affairs Maxim Litvinoff tonight forwarded to the provincial government a telegram recommending reinstatement of M. E. Eshmanov as manager and M. Eshmont as assistant manager of the railway.

He appointed M. Simanovsky, foreign office agent at the border point Kharovsk, as official representative of the Soviet government to conduct further negotiations with Mukden.

Chinese Propose Plan. Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang was reported to have proposed restoration of the status quo.

To this Litvinoff replied, "Have received your telegram of November 26 declaring your full acceptance of preliminary conditions communicated in writing on November 23 through Tsai Fu-Chan, diplomatic commissar at Harbin."

"These conditions were first official consent by the Chinese to restoration of the situation of the Chinese Eastern Railway existing prior to the conflict on the basis of the Peking-Mukden agreement of 1924; secondly, immediate reinstatement of the manager and assistant manager of the railway recommended by the Soviet government in accordance with the Peking-Mukden agreement; thirdly, immediate release of all Soviet citizens arrested in connection with the dispute."

Cleaning Bill Is Idea To Outlaw Starlings

Senatorial Pair Plans Legislation to Bring Early Action.

They stood on the steps of the Capitol of the United States. One a big inquiry and quiz senator from a wealthy Northern State, the other a great investigation and probe senator from a powerful Southern member of the Union.

"So deep in conversation were they that the usual delegation of 'country cousins' visiting the points of interest in Washington stopped to watch what they believed was one of those impromptu conferences at which the fates of nations are decided and the great problems of state unraveled to the satisfaction of the majority."

Tariff, naval parleys, farm relief were some of the subjects advanced by onlookers as the topic which held these two noted statesmen entranced. But the onlookers were wrong. The actual conversation between Jim, the Northerner, and Joe, the Southerner, was as follows:

"Something's got to be done about it," declared Joe.

"About what?" inquired Jim.

"About those blankety-blank starlings on Pennsylvania avenue," was Joe's reply.

"Oh, you're darn tootin'; there's got to be something done about it."

"It's an outrage that such a condition should exist in a city as beautiful as Washington."

"Yep, and it's all the fault of the District Commissioners if you ask me."

SHOES OF MECHANIC RIPPED FROM FEET

Student Flier Is Killed When His Plane Creaks Up at Roosevelt Field.

New York, Nov. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The suburban peace of Westbury and Carle place, accustomed for years to the roar of airplanes passing overhead and altogether unperturbed by their proximity to Long Island's trio of flying fields, was rudely shattered this afternoon when a ship plunged out of the sky into the heart of each hamlet, spreading pandemonium and destruction.

In the first crash James Pisani, 19, a student pilot, who had only about a dozen hours of solo flying to his credit and was making practice flights from Roosevelt Field, No. 1, lost his life when his fleet biplane crashed on a building at Maple and Post avenues, Westbury, and hurtled down into the street, narrowly missing a patrolman and several other pedestrians.

In the second, a giant four-motored Fokker monoplane, the F-32, largest land plane in the world, wrought havoc by losing flying speed and coming down in Carle place, wrecking a house and being destroyed with it in flames from its ruptured gasoline tanks.

Draw Escape Death. Almost miraculously the pilot, J. S. Boggs, and mechanic, Harry McDonald, the only occupants of the ship, were thrown from or jumped clear of the big ship and escaped with their lives. Equally narrow escapes were experienced by a woman and two children in the wrecked house and another woman and her year-old son in an adjoining one which was grazed by the huge plane and showered with blazing gasoline that spouted for 400 feet as the final impact.

In the Westbury accident Pisani was unconscious when hurled from the wreckage of his plane and died in a private automobile. He died in Nassau Hospital shortly after his arrival there. Witnesses of the crash said he apparently lost his head and tried to make a landing in the street, standing up in the cockpit at the last moment as if he meant to jump.

Boggs, the pilot of the big Fokker, was the worse injured in the Carle Place crash, but escaped with a deep cut between the eyes, two badly sprained ankles and possible internal injuries. McDonald was cut and dressed.

UTILITIES MEN PLAN HEAVY 1930 OUTLAY, HOOVER IS ADVISED

Dollars-and-Cents Outline Of Prosperity Conferences

More than $2,000,000,000 worth of public improvements have been pledged for the year 1930 as the result of President Hoover's prosperity conferences with indications that several hundred million dollars more will be used to provide work of all kinds, thus maintaining the present conditions in this country. A tabulation of the amounts pledged to keep business at normal paces follows:

New utility works.....	$1,400,000,000
State improvements.....	414,600,000
Shipping board program.....	175,000,000
Railroad improvements.....	100,000,000
Other industries.....	25,000,000
Total.....	$2,114,600,000

Figures on State improvements include reports from only 11 of the 48 members of the Union, many States having promised cooperation but without announcing estimates. Additional railroad work will add to this total nearly $1,000,000,000 according to the estimate of the Bureau of Railway Economics. Private building programs also will add a considerable sum to the grand total.

SANCTITY OF HOME UPHOLD IN RUM CASE

Agents' Raid on Still After Seeing It Running Is Held Illegal.

WARRANTS ARE NEEDED LONG DELAY IS POSSIBLE

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Federal Judge J. W. Woodruff declared today that protection of the sanctity of the home is more important than "any enforcement" of the prohibition law, in an opinion holding that Federal agents can not enter a home without a search warrant. The opinion will be filed tomorrow, the judge said.

The judge had dismissed indictments against two men charged with operation of a still. They were returned after Federal agents testified they "smelled cooking mash, heard the roar of the burners and saw part of the still through an open doorway."

The agents raided the house without a search warrant. "Although agents see, hear and smell violations of the liquor law in a residence," Judge Woodruff said, "they must obtain a search warrant before making a raid, seizing the evidence and arresting the owner."

The court declared that the raid on the still was not justified. His ruling met with a protest from the district attorney's office.

"It is revolutionary," declared William Froelich, former assistant district attorney here, who is now an assistant attorney general assigned here to aid in liquor case prosecutions.

District Attorney J. C. Kinsler said: "It is equivalent to saying that a man can not break into a house without a warrant, even if he can see or hear a felony—even a murder—being committed."

NATION'S CONDITION HELD NOT ALARMING

Vast Expenditure Is Fully Justified, Says Head of Power Group.

INDIVIDUALS EXPRESS OPTIMISM OF FUTURE

Prosperity Parleys Close With Chorus of Faith in U. S. Soundness.

By CARLISLE BARGENON. The Nation's utility magnates yesterday assured President Hoover that their expenditures for new construction and maintenance next year would exceed 9 per cent of their capital wealth.

Matthew Gloans, president of the National Electric Light Association, speaking for all the utility groups, electric light and power, manufactured and natural gas and electric railways, after the conference with the President, said that an expenditure of $1,400,000,000 for new construction is contemplated for 1930, an increase over current expenditures of $120,000,000. In addition $410,000,000 will be spent for maintenance, he said.

The last available figures on the capital wealth of the utilities place it at $10,200,000,000. Of this amount the $1,400,000,000 improvement program constitutes 7 per cent, while the maintenance expenditure of $410,000,000 is somewhat more than 3 per cent.

1929 Plans Completed. Speaking for his own association, Gloans said the electric light and power utilities plan to spend $500,000,000 for expansion of facilities, an increase of $45,000,000 over the present year. The programs provide for development and expansion in every section of the country, he said.

"The plans for 1930 are completed," he explained; large commitments have already been entered into and many contracts for equipment and material have been placed. Careful consideration of existing conditions has justified this expansion in anticipation of the growing requirements of industry for power, and consumer generally for increased electric service."

Speaking for the American Gas Association, J. J. Muller, president, said additional construction for next year for the natural gas industry is estimated at $435,000,000, an increase of 6 per cent over the present year, while $80,000,000 will be expended for maintenance.

No Disturbing Change Noted. "The construction estimate," he said, "is based primarily upon budget provisions already formulated for 1930 by companies representing the major part of gas production and distribution in the United States. The conclusions thus indicated have been checked against the actual experience of the industry for many years, as well as against current observation and information and have been correspondingly strengthened."

"The customer contacts and day in day experiences of the companies represented," he said, "reflect no disturbing change in business conditions or trends."

Speaking for the electric railway groups, J. N. Shanahan, of Omaha, acting for Paul Snodup, president of the American Electric Railway Association, said that a survey "indicates that this industry, which during 1929 is spending approximately $1,000,000 a day for maintenance and betterments and expansion, expects

Mountain View, Ark., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A little less strict guard is maintained over the five men indicted here for the murder of a girl, 16-year-old, who was burned alive in a house on the corner of Main and 16th streets, Nov. 16. Census Rating Protested
By Woman's Party Leader

Housewives Are Urged to Give Occupation as Homemaker.

A call to protest against the "no occupation" classification of housewives in the coming census was issued today by Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, national vice chairman of the Women's Party, of Washington. The census bureau ruling that women housekeepers be listed without occupation is an indignity to which women who value themselves and their work should not submit, the speaker declared.

Mrs. Hilles' speech was part of a program of the Women's Party, which is making a drive to get women to give their occupation as homemaker in the coming census. The party is making a drive to get women to give their occupation as homemaker in the coming census. The party is making a drive to get women to give their occupation as homemaker in the coming census.

The average working time of the housewife, according to a recent survey of the Department of Agriculture, is 63 hours a week, and the woman is the most important factor on the farm, Mrs. Hilles said.

"In the face of these facts, the classification given to these women in the census as being without occupation is an insult," Mrs. Hilles declared. "We are still inferior in the eyes of the law."

"According to the law in all of our states, the wife is a homemaker. This is the only occupation that she has. This is the only occupation that she has. This is the only occupation that she has."

Though four more men are sought in connection with the case, Sheriff Johnson says all have left the community, and he does not expect other arrests soon. Whether they were indicted along with the five in custody has not been revealed.

Failure of Institutions in Oklahoma Attributed to Frozen Assets.

SEVERAL MAY REOPEN
Oklahoma City, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A dozen Oklahoma banks failed to open their doors today following the death last night of H. A. McCauley, 66, former mayor of Sapulpa and board member of thirteen banks in the State.

McCauley, who placed the banks in charge of examiners, attributed their failure to frozen assets. Their total deposits as of October 4 were $2,500,000, and their capital stock aggregated $10,000,000.

McCauley, who was down his health struggling desperately to avert the failure of the institutions, which had been crippled in the deflation period of 1920, was in Tulsa yesterday attempting to float a loan with which to carry to Sapulpa State Bank over the crisis. C. J. Alexander, assistant State bank commissioner, in charge of this bank, said he was unsuccessful.

Twelve Banks Listed.
The twelve closed banks are: The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank, The Sapulpa State Bank.

McCauley believed he could work out his problem, said Shull, "and did not go to bed last night. He was up until 3 o'clock in the morning, and he was up until 3 o'clock in the morning, and he was up until 3 o'clock in the morning."

Approximate list of the failures would be attributed to the recent stock market crash, and thus produce a deflationary effect, Shull hastened to add. The failures simply were coincidental with the market collapse. Officials, he said, had not speculated with bank money.

"None of McCauley's banks carried that kind of collateral," he added.
Collapses as He Retires.
Hope destroyed, McCauley went to his home and collapsed as he started to retire. He died, his wife said, less than an hour later. Dr. F. K. Lewis, who was summoned, said he had died of apoplexy.

The banks taken over by the State banking department and their condition as of October 4 follows:
Sapulpa State Bank, Sapulpa; deposits, $1,042,000; capital stock, $100,000.
Bank of Mounds, Mounds; deposits, $127,000; capital stock, $25,000.

Henrietta State Bank, Henrietta; deposits, $127,000; capital stock, $25,000.
Bank of Commerce, Weleetka; deposits, $62,000; capital stock, $12,500.
First State Bank, Vian; deposits, $73,000; capital stock, $10,000.

Seven Others Included.
Citizens State Bank, Weleetka; deposits, $127,000; capital stock, $25,000.
Davenport State Bank, Davenport; deposits, $127,000; capital stock, $25,000.
Bank of Commerce, Weleetka; deposits, $62,000; capital stock, $12,500.

First State Bank, Vian; deposits, $73,000; capital stock, $10,000.
Keystone State Bank, Keystone; deposits, $62,000; capital stock, $12,500.
Bank of Commerce, Weleetka; deposits, $62,000; capital stock, $12,500.

McCauley was a civic leader in Sapulpa. He was mayor for one year, and one of the city commissioners under the city manager form of government now in effect.

The only bank which McCauley controlled and which did not close its doors was the American State Bank of Okmulgee.

Shull indicated there was a possibility that the banks at Henrietta and Sapulpa might be reopened.

Creek Cemetery.

WAS RELIGIOUS LEADER

Funeral services for Irwin Brews Linton, a veteran member of the local bar and for many years active in the civic and religious life of Washington, who died Tuesday night, will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

He was 77 years old, and had been a resident of the Capital almost all of his life. He was born at Morris town, a suburb of Philadelphia. He entered the practice of law in 1878 in the office of Richard T. Merrick. For some years, he was private secretary to Justice Stephen J. Field, of the United States Supreme Court. He was one of the first members and directors of the old American National Bank, later becoming a director of the merged institution, the Federal American National Bank. For nearly 30 years, he was president of the Presbyterian Alliance, embracing all Presbyterian churches in the District. For the last decade he had been president of the board of trustees of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

He was a member of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District, a director of the African Inland Mission, an elder of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, and a leader in the Missionary Prayer Union.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Kate M. Linton; a daughter, Mrs. Mabel Linton Williams; and a son, Irwin H. Linton, all of Washington.

SUICIDE LEAVES NOTE BLAMING OFFICER

The death of a suicide, was turned over to Maj. Pratt for investigation. Mrs. George Brew, who conducts the rooming house, recalled the suicide shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They were traced to Dodd's room. Clarence Beasley, another roomer, battered down the locked door and found Dodd, partially clothed, lying on the bed with a gas tube at his side.

Beasley opened the windows and tried to revive him. Police were notified. The rescue squad sought ineffectually to revive him by applying artificial respiration. The suicide note was found on a bureau in the room.

Dodd had apparently connected the tube to a gas jet in the room and inhaled the gas. Lieut. J. A. Sullivan and Patrolman A. R. Houch, of the Sixth Precinct and Detective E. E. Thompson and Thomas Nally, of headquarters, brought all the personal effects of the suicide to the rooming house where they will be examined.

Mrs. Brew said that Dodd had been a roomer at her place since November 6, when he was released from Sibley Memorial Hospital. He had been confined there since November 2, following an alleged suicide attempt. Earlier in the day a woman roomer said she heard groans coming from the room, but this was not an unusual occurrence.

Mrs. Mary Dodd, his wife, visited the scene yesterday afternoon.

Friends of Mrs. Dodd were unable to give her present address, but said she was living with friends. She is employed in the Government Printing Office. Prior to his recent illness Dodd was employed by a refrigeration company in Washington.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED BY LIQUOR RAIDERS

The door was abruptly shut upon them. The detectives continued knocking at the door and in a few moments the door opened and a 3-year-old girl opened the door.

"Where is your mother?" Cox asked. "She's out on the porch, sir. Won't you come in?" the detectives stated the child politely responded.

Accepting the invitation, they were hurrying to the porch when Mrs. Miller appeared. Investigation by McCarron, it was said, revealed that a bundle of alleged liquor bottles were on the street under the porch, all broken except one, which was taken as evidence.

Members of the vice squad also arrested four men and seized a quantity of alleged equipment said to be used in "number" gaming in two other raids.

In an apartment at Seventeenth and U streets northwest the raiders arrested George Hillow, 24 years old, of Ninth and Hamilton streets northwest, and William Hollman, colored, 27, of Florida avenue northwest near Seventeenth street, who were charged with permitting gaming.

Maurice Shapiro, 36 years old, of Kenyon street near Warder northwest, was taken in a raid on a street northwest near Fifteenth street and accused of permitting gaming. In another raid on U street northwest near Ninth street, West, D. D. colored, 31, of Ninth and T streets northwest was arrested on charges of permitting gaming.

Several witnesses were taken in each of the raids, but were released after questioning.

New Orleans Bandits Steal $15,000 at Bank

New Orleans, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Three bandits today held up the Algiers branch of the Cawley & Trust Co. and escaped with $15,000.

Three men drove up in an automobile and walked in the bank just as a police guard left his post. One man stood in the middle of the floor with a sawed-off shot gun, while the other two, carrying pistols, forced the paying teller and the receiving teller to bundle the money in bags and hand it through the window.

LOUD-SPEAKER FAN REPLIES TO CRITICS

a woman who was "disturbed" by the loudspeaker and "batteries" after she had shot a member of the town fire and drum corps because he kept her baby awake. There are two things to be thankful for, anyway.

That Mister Webster and the ancient Romans knew their hubbub is demonstrated by the flock of balloons that keep pouring in to the Noise Editor's desk daily.

But sight must not be lost of the fact that, after all, a newspaper is only a finger-pointing. It is neither Congress nor the Police Department. While the din disclosure being conducted by The Post can make the law makers and enforcers noise-conscious to the extent that they will act for abatement it can't work miracles.

"What is the good of all this campaign if nothing is accomplished. I sent you a ballot Sunday telling about my neighbor's loud radio, but the thing still continues to blast away as loud as ever," writes one woman. Omigod, lady, surely you don't expect the Noise Editor to come out and wreck that loud speaker personally!

But seriously speaking, it grows more apparent momentarily that the noise problem is recognized acutely and universally by residents of the Capital. One might almost say that The Post's campaign is a homecoming success, except that one might be accused of punning.

Loud speakers in homes continue to lead 140 ballots having been cast against them, as compared with 109 complaints about automobile horns, 98 against barking dogs, 87 against noisy brakes, the same number against noisy parties, and so on down to alarm clocks, peddlers, pigeons, snoring neighbors and a few more noises makers which have drawn one protest each. Thus far, in addition to the 23 noises listed on The Post's ballot form, complaints have nominated sixteen more sounds which rouse their ire, chief of which appear to be garages, motorcycles, children, cats, children, noisy students and church bells, each of which has been protested against by at least a dozen persons.

Nine complaints have been received about the nocturnal noises generated by the police of the Third Precinct. Private Allen is no longer there, either. Incidentally, the Third is the only precinct that has been criticized by the opponents of noise. But complaints continue to pour in about the Emergency Hospital ambulance.

The inquiry has reached the stage now where it is moving the populace to poetry. That's a positive sign of something or other. Four poems, all too lengthy for publication, arrived in the early mail yesterday—and three of them weren't too terrible, either.

Five more ballots, incidentally, have come in listing "smoke" as the most irritating "noise" imaginable. That belies the use of the word.

Like practically everything else in life, noises are relative according to the sensitivities and personal preferences of the listener, and noises come also in varying degrees, so that what is positively nauseating to one set of eardrums may be quite salubrious to another.

Naturally, therefore, some noises which may be entirely acceptable to the chosen few are deadly plagues to the vast majority—and vice versa, of course. It was with that fact in mind that The Post started its investigation, to discover which noises arouse the greatest animosity in the greatest number of listeners, to the end that something, perhaps, might be done about it.

The consistency with which the various noises are maintaining their relative positions on the ballot list is already serving to give an indication of how each noise stands in popularity, but in numbers there is strength; the more the noise is voted, the more probably there will be of getting action for abatement. So send 'em in.

Wallace, Idaho, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The "rum ring" wrecking crew of Federal officers, armed with nearly 200 grand jury indictments today continued their arrests of 91 men indicted for alleged conspiracy.

The alleged rum conspiracy is said to center in Shoshone County. The principal towns involved are Wallace, Mullan and Kellogg.

Thirty-three of the accused have posted bonds on conspiracy charges totaling $66,000.

At Wallace the mayor, the sheriff and the county assessor were arrested for conspiracy, as were the mayor, chief of police and most of the councilmen at Mullan. Some were charged with participating actively in a rum ring, others with knowing of it and doing nothing.

Wallace, Kellogg, Mullan and Burke struggle in pockets of the rough Coeur d'Alene Mountains.

Unfrosted Pastor Denies Immorality

Takes Witness Stand in
$50,000 Slander Suit
Against Seven.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—John A. L. Warren, unfrosted Methodist minister of Durand, Ill., today took the witness stand in his $50,000 slander suit brought against seven of his former parishioners and denied charges of immorality with a domestic in his home which caused his dismissal from the church.

The former pastor faced his accusers and denied every detail of the alleged illicit love affair with the girl, then Hazel Lamb, but since married. Attorneys for both sides said they were unaware of the girl's whereabouts.

Warren repudiated the girl's story, which he alleged she was induced to make by the defendants while they knew it to be false. He charged as a result he was ousted as pastor, unfrosted and held up to public ridicule, hatred and contempt.

Federal district attorney's office asserted. The license system of Mullan was cited as example. Soft drink sellers and business establishments paid fees into the city treasury and the money was used to pave the streets and pay the police. Federal men say the "licenses" were for liquor protection.

Mullan condemns say the licenses were not for such purposes.

FOREIGN TRAVEL.

Secretary Stimson and the personnel connected with the American delegation to the London naval conference must pay their own travel expenses to Europe if they go on a foreign ship instead of a vessel flying the Stars and Stripes. Section 601 of the merchant marine act of May 22, 1928, provides:

Any officer or employee of the United States traveling on official business overseas to foreign countries, or to any of the possessions of the United States, shall travel and transport his personal effects on ships registered under the laws of the United States when such ships are available unless the necessity of his mission requires the use of a ship under a foreign flag: Provided, that the Comptroller General of the United States shall not credit any allowance for travel or shipping expenses incurred on a foreign ship in the absence of satisfactory proof of the necessity therefor.

It has been tentatively planned to choose the British liner Olympic to convey Mr. Stimson and the delegation to Europe. The reason for selecting a British ship was ascribed to the convenient sailing date and date of arrival of the vessel in England. She is scheduled to leave about midnight on January 10 and arrive about January 17 at Southampton. The Secretary of State made it known that he would have chosen the Leviathan if that ship could have been made available at the selected date.

It now develops that the George Washington will be ready to sail on January 10 and will reach England on January 17, and the State Department has been asked if it desires to avail itself of the accommodations, including the two suites which President Wilson used when traveling to and from Europe at the time of the Paris peace conference. Mr. Stimson has not decided between the British ship Olympic and the American ship George Washington, and it may be that he is unaware of the law on the subject.

At least two of the American delegates, Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Robinson, of Arkansas, were instrumental in enacting the law in question, and no doubt will prefer to travel on an American ship.

Comptroller General McCarl has already construed this law to mean what it says, and it is clear that no money will be paid out by the Government—not even the $7 per diem allowance—to reimburse an American official who travels on a foreign vessel.

The test case was decided by Mr. McCarl last July in connection with a trip to Europe made by the American commissioner to the Mixed Claims Commission. The commissioner desired to travel on a German ship direct to Hamburg, and pointed out that there were many good reasons for selecting a German vessel. As a matter of policy he thought it would be advisable, but Mr. McCarl ruled against this plea. The official then pointed out that he had many volumes of records, documentary evidence, &c., which could not conveniently be carried by train for a distance of 70 miles, and that the rail trip would be obstructed by taking the German vessel. Mr. McCarl ruled against this plea also. Finally the commissioner asked if he could collect the $7 per diem allowance if he traveled on the German ship and paid his own expenses. Mr. McCarl ruled that he could not collect the $7 per diem charge. In his decision Mr. McCarl said:

The fact that travel upon the American vessel will entail a short rail journey and perhaps one day more on transportation can not be considered as creating a necessity requiring the use of a ship under a foreign flag, or as warranting a conclusion that the American vessel is not available.

Upon his return to Washington Mr. Stimson may reconsider the question in the light of the law and Mr. McCarl's ruling.

LABOR'S COOPERATION.

In connection with organized labor's pledge not to demand wage increases during the present economic crisis, the left-wing labor group headed by A. J. Muste, of the Brookwood Labor College, chairman of the conference for progressive labor action, bitterly attacks William Green and the American Federation of Labor. "A poor, unnecessary and disgraceful bargain has been made," says Muste, adding: "Big business and the profiteers and speculators who are responsible for the plight in which the country finds itself after an orgy of speculation and the subsequent crash, get a handsome bargain. They are handed a substantial wage reduction. The Government places all its forces at their disposal to make sure that business shall go on as usual. What does labor get in return?"

What labor gets in return is its jobs. It is not necessary to consider the causes of the crash that has affected the securities markets nor to designate those who should be held responsible to justify the pledge made by the Federation of Labor not to demand wage increases while the critical period lasts. An economically serious situation has been brought on by one cause or another. In the emergency every shoulder must be put to the wheel if industrial stagnation and genuine hard times are to be avoided. If general depression were to sweep the country, labor would feel its bite first. The pledge not to demand wage increases may be looked upon as a wise defensive move upon the part of federation officials, in the interest of the economic security of the federation membership.

Muste, and the group he commands, are destructionists. They would tear down the existing industrial structure in the hope of building upon the ruins a new structure more to their liking. The Federation of Labor, however, espouses the cause of cooperative effort looking toward the evolution of an improved industrial structure. The federation recognizes the fact that there is an affinity of interest between employer and employee and it realizes that prosperity can be made secure only through the cooperation. In this crisis, of employer and employee. Labor may count itself fortunate that the federation is not in the hand of Muste.

SPEED AND RECKLESSNESS.

The movement to shift emphasis from speed to recklessness in the control of traffic is gaining momentum. The States are constantly revising their speed limits upward on open roads, and in some instances all restrictions as to speed have been eliminated. It has generally been found that there is no close relationship between speed and accidents in noncongested areas, and the necessity of facilitating traffic has made higher rates of travel urgent.

This view is supported by a report of the committee on causes and prevention of accidents, recently made to the highway research board of the National Research Council. The report written by Benjamin G. Eynon, motor vehicle commissioner for Pennsylvania, contains the following paragraph:

It seems to be an established fact that speed limits are generally ineffective, and where top speed laws are in force the efforts of enforcement officers are directed toward violations of this nature rather than being concentrated on recklessness and accident hazards. While under certain conditions on straight highways some operators drive with perfect safety at 50 or 60 miles an hour, speeds of 10 to 15 miles an hour are hazardous at points of danger, and it is at these latter points that enforcement is necessary. If this committee were to promote national legislation for elimination of the top speed limit it would place itself on record as favoring a forward movement.

It is in speed accompanied by recklessness that the danger lies. By no stretch of the imagination can speed that involves no danger to any one be considered an offense against society. Most jurisdictions are still trying to curb recklessness by laying down a blanket restriction against motorists as if all drivers and all cars were equally competent, and all sections of an open highway were equally safe. Elimination of this action would no doubt center attention of enforcement officers on reckless driving and defective machinery. The result should be less stagnation of traffic and fewer accidents.

INSTALLMENT BUYING.

The Institute of Law of Johns Hopkins University is conducting a comprehensive survey of installment purchasing. Under the direction of Dr. Walter Cook a collection of installment buying contracts has been assembled, and a complete analysis of court decisions concerning these contracts throughout the United States will shortly be undertaken. The final step in the investigation will be the study of the actual usages and practices of the commercial community.

In connection with the stock market depression, the installment purchasing investigation assumes great importance. Senator Couzens and others for several years have been contending that this newest and typically American merchandising development was, in effect, a two-edged sword. While it was admitted that installment selling had enabled manufacturers to expand their output practically without limit, and had brought luxuries into the lives of those of moderate means, it was pointed out that the average installment purchaser was prone to stretch his credit as far as it would go. Senator Couzens and those who saw eye to eye with him believed that a breaking point ultimately would be reached.

It remained for Leroy D. Peasey, president of the Babson Statistical Organization, to link installment purchasing to the stock market depression. In a radio address delivered last Saturday night, he called attention to the fact that one element always present in depressions is an overstocking of merchandise. In the past, he said, it has been the manufacturer or the retailer who was overstocked, but this time it is the consumer. No one can tell, he asserted, how many million dollars worth of unpaid-for goods repose in the homes of consumers, secured only by promissory notes in the hands of the installment collector, but it is certain that these overstocks, as they may be considered, played a part in precipitating the collapse.

How great a part they played remains to be seen. Whether or not installment purchasing to the limit as it is practiced in the United States may be regarded as sound commercial practice has yet to be proved. Johns Hopkins University, with a searching analysis of the installment system already under way, will render an invaluable service to the business community by throwing light upon this economic phenomenon.

JUDGE PARKER'S BEQUEST.

Judge Edwin B. Parker's bequest for the establishment of a Graduate School of International Affairs in Washington can be made most valuable. As umpire of the American-German Mixed Claims Commission he had learned to appreciate the value of training along this line. The fact that he bequeathed the principal part of his $2,000,000 estate to that purpose is evidence of a deep devotion to his country's welfare. Perhaps no purpose to which he could have devoted that fortune would have been more productive of good. His selection of an eminent supervising board and the provision that the institution shall be "broadly conceived and always adjusted to meet the need of the times" gives assurance of a wholesome influence in this extensive field of study.

The institution is designed to "teach high-minded young men of proven character and ability subjects calculated to equip them to render practical service of a high order to the United States Government in its foreign relations." The people need a better understanding of international problems. The Government must be in a position to hold its own in international conferences. The people must be capable of electing to Congress men who can deal intelligently with foreign affairs. Too little attention has been given to this field in the past. As international problems are thrust more and more into the foreground, the country will develop a keen appreciation of Judge Parker's contribution to its welfare.

BRITAIN'S BASES OFF OUR SHORES

From the New York Herald Tribune.

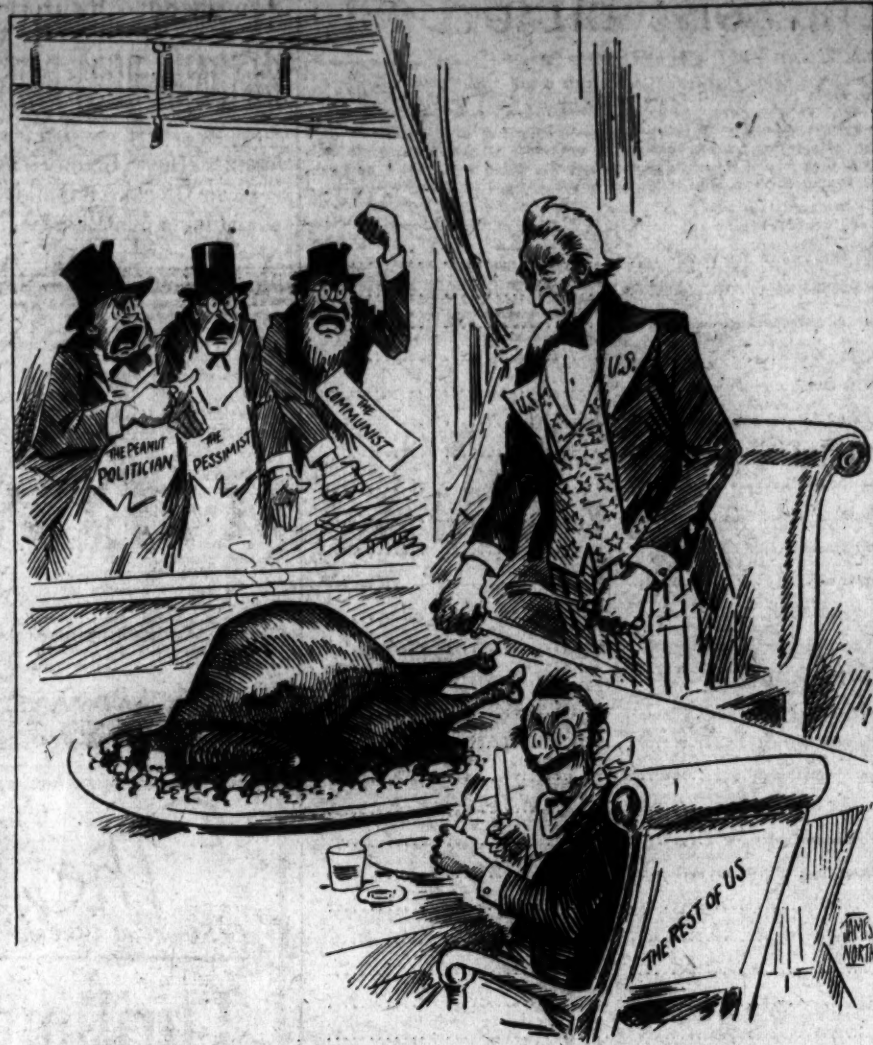

The first lord of the admiralty's declaration to the House of Commons that the British naval bases in the western Atlantic were not to be considered at the forthcoming London conference confirms the belief which has been held here for some time. Nevertheless, as larger questions of sea power are going to be involved in the conference and as sea power consists of naval bases as well as of a fleet and a merchant marine, it is pertinent at this time to see just what the British naval bases in western Atlantic waters are.

First on the list is Halifax, with a commercial drydock capable of taking cruisers of the 8,400-ton class and having extensive repair facilities and plentiful coal and fuel-oil supplies. Next in importance is Bermuda, with a floating drydock which can probably accommodate a small cruiser and which could, in an emergency, be improved in two months for the use of a large ship. Port of Spain, Trinidad and Kingston, Jamaica, are the other two. Repair and docking facilities are slight, but where fuel oil is concerned Port of Spain is in an especially valuable position on account of its proximity to the rich Venezuelan oil fields. It is therefore apparent that just as they stand today these bases could be distinctly useful.

The great war gave several striking illustrations of the value of naval bases which should be more familiar to Americans than they actually are. During the war the British fleet of capital ships was normally reduced by about 15 per cent because that fraction of vessels was constantly under repair. If the same force were to operate 3,000 miles from home and had no outside bases, it would have great difficulty in maintaining an effective strength of 50 per cent on the scene of operations. With a base like Halifax to fall back on, the effective strength would at once go from about 50 per cent to about 85.

With smaller vessels the proportion of absentees is even greater, owing to the fact that smaller vessels can not stay away from their bases as long as capital ships can. During the war the patrol of the waters between Iceland and the Orkneys was constantly maintained by a group of cruisers. Their base was in Scotland, only 300 miles away, yet about 40 per cent of the force was constantly absent. If these ships had operated from their Scottish base in western Atlantic waters nearly 75 per cent of absentees would have been normally necessary.

The British western Atlantic bases therefore have a distinct value to the British, and it is not hard to understand why the MacDonald government thought it wise to state that they would not be considered at the conference and that there was no intention of closing them. We, of course, have no bases at all in corresponding positions in the eastern Atlantic or in positions on the British Isles corresponding to their bases on our Panama route. Yet in 1925, for instance, 145,000,000 tons of freight for our international commerce were transported via Panama and the Gulf of Mexico in American bottoms—an amount nearly twice as great as the freight carried by American ships in our entire seagoing foreign trade. The British decision not to close their bases on this important route is thus understandable, and it is well that their attitude on this point should be cleared up before the conference, so that every one may realize that the conference starts with a limited object—the attainment of equality in auxiliary vessels—and does not attack the broad question of equality in total sea power.

THANKSGIVING.
For sheltering roof for every smile
Which makes the tasks of day worth while;
For each glad evening's welcoming,
And all to which we fondly cling;
For health for play, and strength for care
Receive, O Lord, our grateful prayer.

For fruit of earth and vine and tree
In gratitude we turn to Thee,
For all the simple joys of day
Which drive the fearful doubts away
And make it good to strive and live
Receive, O Lord, these thanks we give.

Throughout the tumult of the years
Thy bounty everywhere appears
For wisest thought, for clearer sight,
For truer sense of wrong and right,
For each small triumph over pain
We speak our gratitude again.

Lord, for the joys Thy mercy sends,
The laughter and the love of friends,
The tranquil home, the garden gay,
The children happy at their play,
For all that makes it sweet to live
This day full-hearted thanks we give.

You Can't Expect Promotion If You Hate the Authority That Promotes

By ROBERT QUILEN

IT is a kind provision of nature that causes people to live only in the present.

If they could not forget the past its follies and mistakes would burden them with remorse and discouragement; if they could visualize the future its troubles would burden them with anxiety. Living only in the present they escape sorrows and fears, but they pay for their immunity. Without a past or a future to afford comparison they can not measure the value of the present.

To those who lived before the invention of flying machines and radios these things seem incredible miracles, but to the children who never had experience of a world without such conveniences they seem as commonplace as wagons seemed to our fathers.

The thing to which we are accustomed seems ordinary and normal. Clear skies and trees and birds seem commonplace to us because we did not see the world when it was a steaming swamp without other vegetation than giant ferns.

We marvel at nothing, and all things that we know are "natural" because we have known nothing else and can not visualize the earth as it was in the beginning.

Thus it happens that we take all things for granted and lose sight of the self-evident fact that a power beyond human comprehension created the earth and directed the miracle of its development.

Yet the fact that the earth is here is proof of the miracle, and the fact that "natural laws" continue in force is proof that the power that created the universe still controls it.

And since all human experience proves that obedience to natural law results in profitable growth, while disobedience invites a penalty, it is clearly the part of wisdom to live in harmony with the power that rules and directs all things.

How can one live in harmony with the universal power? It is a matter that words can not explain. And yet each individual knows whether he is fighting against the bars of the inevitable or contentedly adjusting himself to things as they are.

To struggle resentfully is to bruise your spirit in futile rebellion; to surrender self and become in spirit a willing servant of the power that rules all things is to find the peace of God that passeth understanding.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL BOOSTS THE PROSPERITY DRIVE.
Elmer Twitchell today announced that he is out to do his part in the Hoover drive to keep the wheels of industry moving. "I have wired the President assuring him that I am going ahead with a big expansion movement, and when Elmer Twitchell starts expanding he expands plenty," he said this morning.

"Of course I can't promise to spend millions like those railroad and industrial leaders, but I am going full speed ahead with expenditures just the same. I have placed an order for two new bridges, work to begin at once. This order is with my dentist and not the United States Steel Corporation. However, I want to help the steel company avoid a slump, and I intend to order one steel rail."

"Have you ever stopped to think what it would mean to the steel industry if every person ordered one steel rail?" demanded Elmer.

"I have no use for a steel rail and don't know what to do with it when it is delivered, but I am going to order on as a national duty, and I urge every red-blooded American to do the same. You can put it in the backyard to arouse neighborhood curiosity if you have no other use for it. Think of all the fun you can have keeping the neighbors guessing whether you are going to build a spur track!"

"A nice shiny new steel rail dumped in your yard will have them thinking all sorts of things. I urge every citizen to order one steel rail at once, and, if he has the money, a bar-plate and a couple of ingots. If you can't afford a steel rail sell to yourself a friend to go 50-50."

"I am taking up with Washington the matter of striking off a badge or medal to be given to every citizen who buys a rail. This medal will be inscribed with the buyer's name and the words, 'I've Bought a Steel Rail—Have You?'"

"You can say for me that I'm going ahead with a big program of spending," continued Elmer. "I am having all my shoes oiled and heeled, although they do not need it at this time, and I am going to get shaved every day instead of four times a week. I am also going ahead with a tonsil operation which I intended to defer until next summer."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Big Times Coming in 1930—Money Going Into Industry Instead of Speculation—A Home Illustration.
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have a hunch that industry will be no longer in the United States in 1930 there will be a scarcity instead of surplus in labor circles. The bladders which the little wanton boys were swimming on in Wall Street popped. About a year ago stocks went up through the blue sky and about two years ago a swarm of investment trusts were organized to help a lot more up on top of the blue dome. The investment trusts evidently got badly stung because they began buying when the market was higher than a cat's back. Quite a lot of speculators got stung, too. They acquired the lofty habit of outraged scorn for the less fortunate who advised them to take profits.

The big bull market began five years ago and went steadily forward until the reaction of 1926. Then after an all summer's dullness it started forward again. But last October 22 it went down like a lead plummet. A deluge of water went over a veritable wall street Niagara-Falls, and a lot of economists, well sponsored, argued that common stocks were safer and better investments than Government bonds went to their doom.

Industry and business are not injured but bettered by the collapse. Had it gone on into 1930, with the higher and higher rates of interest, business would have been completely paralyzed.

The butcher and the baker and the candlestick maker were all going into stocks, neglecting their business and using their business reserve capital for marginal payments on stocks. Marginal payments are simply part payments same as part payments on a house or piano. Why then the wrath about margin speculation?

There evidently were few shorts in the market October 23, so the market would not have dropped so precipitately. Shorts are just like the long, they like to take profits and when they cover they buy. In a panic they are the only buyers in the market. Why, then, all this wrath about short selling?

The truth of the matter is the big bulls had hammered the bears unmercifully for over five years. They practically disappeared. The financial papers stopped quoting the loaning rates on stocks.

Who profited by the bull market? Over a hundred big corporations who split up their shares and issued rights to buy more. They window dressed with a vengeance. They were enabled to replace their bonds with common stocks (when issued, water) sold to the people at twice, three or four times the price of their bonds and had so much money on hand when the boom burst they had upwards of three billions loaned out on call, none of which they lost.

So President Hoover does well to call the big business men together. With him as a guide they will find plenty of unexploited work to do and it won't all be luxury stuff either.

They say the building boom is over. Why it is just beginning and I'll show you why. I recently moved into a new apartment house. It is unpretentious and substantially built. Every apartment was rented before the building was completed. Why? There are no arabesques on the outside of the building but inside there is an $11,000 master radio that furnishes each of 140 apartments the most beautiful music and entertainment money can buy. There is a swimming pool, tennis, a billiard room and under ground garage. There are electric refrigeration and dish washer, perfect heat and ventilation. The halls are plush carpeted and doors are double with more than enough closets. The people who move in come from other apartments because arabesques get chilly in winter time. The tightwads who own the other apartments will have to open up or lose their investments so the building boom has just begun.

Writer Asks What Senator Borah Thinks of Russia's Invasion of China.
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When Senator Borah was asked who would represent Soviet Russia at the signing of the Kellogg peace pact, the senator was quoted as replying that if nobody else did he would, "in spirit."

What has Senator Borah to say now, if anything, about the repudiation of that pact by Soviet Russia, in an invasion of China following refusal of China to submit to a repudiation by Soviet Russia of a solemn treaty agreeing to desist from propaganda against the Chinese government, and the disclosure that the Chinese Eastern Railway was being used as a propaganda center, even for an assassination plot directed against the officials of the Nationalist government?

China has been demanding arbitration since the beginning of this dispute. China has been demanding opportunity to submit her proofs of violation of the China-Russia treaty to the other powers. Why is there no outcry against the imperialism and militarism of Soviet Russia?

Give the Fire Laddies Better Pay—They Are the Real Heroes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I hope that the bill increasing the pay of Washington's fire-fighters will be passed at the coming session of Congress. When I was a youngster the man who ran with the hose was my favorite hero. St. George and the Dragon has nothing on the Smoke-eater and the Fire Fiend, and he still fits my idea of heroism at its best. Regarding the personnel of our fire-fighting force the word of praise is hardly necessary. The record of what they do from year to year is sufficient. As fine a career as you will find on the job index or out.

MACDONALD SILENT ABOUT PARLEY DATE

Day Set for Naval Conference Will Conflict With League Meeting.

NO OBJECTION TO DELAY

No intimation has yet reached the State Department that Prime Minister MacDonald would welcome a suggestion from Washington that the opening date of the five-power naval conference be postponed a few days beyond January 21 in order not to conflict with the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations.

At the State Department it was indicated yesterday that the United States Government would have no objection to a few days' delay in opening the London conference, which, in any event, is expected to cover a period of several weeks.

Under Secretary of State Cotton, acting secretary in the absence of Secretary Stimson, who is spending a few days at his home in New York, stated that all he knew about the suggested postponement of the London conference was in the press dispatches from abroad.

With important questions coming before the Council of the League of Nations, officials here realize that the conflict in dates may prove embarrassing to European leaders who normally would attend both the council meeting and the naval conference.

Any official suggestion from Prime Minister MacDonald that a brief postponement of the naval parley is advisable would, it is understood, meet with no objection here.

MACDONALD HOPING FOR PARLEY SUCCESS

tremendously delighted that Mr. Kellogg has given his name to a pact which marks a turning point in the history of the world. Mr. Kellogg's name in the cause of justice and proper appreciation of the need of peace will be with us forever."

"Speaking of his American journey, the premier said he had read a lot in the newspapers about how carefully the trip had been thought out. "If my American journey had any success at all it was because it was a spontaneous impulse and was not thought out; it belonged to the inevitable rightness of things. It was utter nonsense and futility. Almost even criminality to go and see two nations to drift, drift and drift, to be united only by dispatches."

He said that knowing men of the stamp of Kellogg were in the United States what could one have thought of doing. Who would really face the problem, except wishing that one might go and shake hands with them? "That is the explanation of my American visit and that was what was done during the American visit," he said.

"Of course we talked with a certain amount of authority about a lot of things. We surveyed the whole situation, but the real purpose of the visit was to create new conditions, because you can negotiate as long as you like, but if conditions of active good will are not in existence, the wisdom of your negotiations is bound to come to naught."

"I received nothing but great hospitality and the most encouraging revelation that whatever our American friends may have said with their lips—sometimes things—they always had right down in their hearts a special affection for us over there."

"They certainly are not going to cooperate with us as allies bound by formal ties. They certainly are not going to commit themselves to European policy and mix themselves up in European messes."

"It is perfectly evident at the same time that wherever and whenever there is a humane flag flying over the world the thought and heart of America will be there. Our cooperation with America will be active so long as the cause in which we are enlisted is good. We have never been able to say the United States has failed in support of any great humane cause. This is the foundation on which our active cooperation and friendship are going to rest."

CORPORATIONS TAKE JURORS' PAY CHECKS

censuring the practice, would be more effective than criminal prosecution, if possible, at this time.

Jury duty is a service imposed on every citizen, according to the court officials, and they believe that if the public knew the real story that these implicated firms and corporations would suffer—not from anything the court had done, but because of public sentiment.

Hope Congress Will Act

While seeking to correct the present situation, those interested in the current investigation are hopeful that Congress will take cognizance of it, and will make it possible for a working man to accept a jury summons without fear and trembling.

"Congress is always trying something on Washington," said one court official, "why doesn't it give us an iron-clad jury law. The men on the hill seek to make Washington an example for the Nation so far as prohibition is concerned, but how can you enforce the law unless the jurors are given reasonable protection?"

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THIS THANKSGIVING DAY will be a pang of regret to every liverwurst lover in the country over the passing of Center Market. The Nation's Capital has been blessed over the years that there was this outing place; that there was a spot to which the liverwurst lover could go of a sultry afternoon, and there in semiretreat meditate upon the city's trade and commerce while munching his favorite fruit.

It was an outing, or to put it better, a picnic, that called for the minimum of capital, 22 cents, to be exact.

One had to have a closed automobile, it is true, because no benches are provided thereabouts, but in this day and time nearly every liverwurst lover has an automobile.

THERE was not the bother and fussing about arranging for this outing there is usually about such things, when a full basket has to be prepared and the mouths of one's kids satisfied.

No, he could avail himself of this relaxation without any preparation at all, indeed, while on his way from work in the afternoon or at the lunch hour.

All he had to do was to park his car in the rear of the market and take his 22 cents inside. Therein were stalls and vendors from whom he could make his choice of a big, juicy dill pickle for 5 cents, a hunk of liverwurst for 10 cents and a box of crackers for 7.

SO EQUIPPED he had then only to return to his car and seat himself comfortably, spreading the luxuries beside him on the seat. The full effect of the debauch, so to speak, was gotten by closing the windows of the car to within one inch of the top. To close them all the way endangered one's life from monoxide gas poisoning, of course, and this would be a thunder of a come-off for such an occasion.

Yet not to close the windows at all did not give one quite the effect that he was seeking. There were tradespeople all about him, rushing to and fro, with baskets on their heads, with calves and beavers thrown over their shoulders; indeed, America's great productive power at its best.

To leave the windows down made one a part of this mad scramble of trade which is not exactly what the liverwurst lover wants.

BUT with the windows closed to the point of safety then he was aloof from it all, so to speak. The parade was there before him but he himself was removed. He was looking through the window at the world going by.

This is the feeling that the Liverwurst lover wants. He wants to be alone, with his art, yet not so far removed that there is not that semi-conscious feeling of what is going on. Enclosed in his car in this manner, he could munch first of his pickle as an appetizer and then bite down heavily on the hunk of liverwurst.

Mgr. Pasquale Robinson Receives Appointment to Ireland.

Vatican City, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The Pope today appointed Mgr. Pasquale Robinson apostolic nuncio to Dublin. Mgr. Robinson is titular Archbishop of Tiana.

England has a minister accredited to the Vatican, but there is no nuncio in London. British law forbidding this. The nuncio at Dublin will be technically accredited to England, but will not reside in English territory.

CAPITAL MAN SENT TO MARYLAND JAIL

John Richardson Given Six Months for Attacking County Officer.

CAROLINIAN FINED $103

John Richardson, of Washington, yesterday was sentenced to serve six months in the Maryland House of Correction on charges of assault and resisting an officer by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville, Branch of Prince Georges County Police Court.

According to the testimony, Richardson had given a check to A. Clark, of Mount Rainier, in payment of an amount he owed. An argument ensued in the court, and Richardson was alleged to have taken the check back. Town Bailiff Henry Cleveland was called and Richardson is alleged to have tried to escape. E. A. Sherbert, of Washington, was fined $50 on charges of transportation and possession of liquor. He is alleged to have had a gallon of liquor in his car. Three companions, two of which were women, were not arrested. J. S. Shelton, of North Carolina, was fined a total of $100 on charges of driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, no license to drive and no registration card. He was arrested Saturday night by County Police Officer Claude Reese and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown, on the Baltimore boulevard. The policeman testified that he was driving his car in such a manner as to be a menace to the other motorists on the road.

Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the newly created division of oral hygiene, Maryland Department of Health, is collecting data in Prince Georges and other counties adjacent to Washington in connection with a State-wide oral hygiene program. Last year two dental clinics were conducted in Prince Georges County, and more will be held this year. Dr. William S. Keller, deputy State and county health officer, informed him.

The established clinics, serving the communities of Mount Rainier, Brentwood, Cottage City and Colman Manor, are at the Brentwood and Riverside Schools. The Brentwood clinic was started late in the school year, and therefore did not accomplish a great deal. Oral hygiene work this year will center in Hyattsville and Laurel, the State official was advised.

County offices, schools and banks will be closed today in observance of Thanksgiving Day. Most of the churches of the county will hold special services in observance of the holiday.

BAIT OF EXPERTS FOR MCMANUS CASE

Testimony on Fatal Pistol Expected to Be Offered Following Recess.

RAYMOND UP TOMORROW

New York, Nov. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A battle of pistol experts impends in the McManus murder trial, which moved majestically through its seventh day today. The reading of testimony for the benefit of a new juror was completed today and new witnesses will be called Friday after tomorrow's holiday recess.

Nathan L. "Nigger Nale" Raymond, who won $200,000 from Arnold Rothstein in the stud poker game, where the State alleges George A. McManus found murder-motivated hatred for Rothstein, will probably be the first witness called Friday. He will probably be followed by pistol experts for the State. These experts will give testimony calculated to show that the gun with which Rothstein was shot was the one found in the street after the shooting.

The sudden gray light of an autumn day struggled into the McManus courtroom today, illuminating a scene of almost epic boredom. Assistant Attorney McDonald and James D. C. Murray, counsel for McManus, alternated in reading the testimony before jurymen Eugene Riker's teetering nerves got him out of continuing in the case. The ample Edmund Shotwell, Riker's successor, listened to the testimony with great attentiveness but the other jurors, who had already heard it fresh from the lips of the witnesses, seemed bored.

McManus sat for hours today without changing his position. He again heard the story of the stud game and his keen eyes roved from the faces of the jurors to the backs of the heads of the witnesses. He sat at the table before the jury box. He was not bored.

The reading of the testimony was concluded shortly before 3 p. m. and court was adjourned after the judge had heard a stipulation agreed upon by both sides concerning the testimony of Joseph Novotny, sporting goods dealer of St. Paul, Minn. Novotny has been in New York for several days and has been in the State and it was decided to keep him no longer. Murray and Assistant District Attorney Rogers agreed, with the consent of General Sessions Judge Mott, presiding, to admit that he sold the pistol now in the possession of the State to a man whom he can not identify.

Hunters Near Luray Kill 400-Pound Bear

Special to The Washington Post. Luray, Va., Nov. 26.—Hog-killing and dog-killing bears are overrunning the Rawley Springs section of Rockingham County, 30 miles south of Luray.

William Nichols, Lester Webster and Harry Martman have just returned from a "coon hunt" in that region—transformed into a bear hunt—that resulted in killing a 400-pound bear and the death of half a dozen valuable dogs. The bear was discovered while Nichols, Webster and Martman were in the foothills of North Mountain. When the hunters discovered that the bear was making war with most of their dogs and crippling others, the men went to the rescue. A half dozen loads of shot finally killed the largest bear ever seen in that section. A second bear found by the hunters was declared "too big to be tackled."

Inquiry Ordered In Bus Accident

Maryland to Inquire Into Report Vehicle Was in Bad Condition.

Closely following the turning over of the Nevins Co.'s Washington-to-New York bus early Tuesday morning, one-half mile south of Beltsville, in which five persons were hurt and 15 were shaken, the Maryland Public Service Commission and Motor Vehicle Commissioner E. Austin Baughman, in Baltimore, yesterday started investigating a report that the machine was in poor condition.

Frank Harper, secretary of the commission, said that a report had been received that James J. Lucas, driver of the coach which figured in the accident, objected to taking the machine from its Washington terminal.

The commission instructed Luke Ellis, its acting chief engineer, to investigate the report that there was a quarrel between Lucas and the dispatcher in Washington because Lucas refused to take the bus to the terminal. Mr. Ellis was instructed to make an investigation of the remark attributed to Lucas to the effect that he didn't want to drive the "dam thing" and that the "bus was a piece of junk."

Special to The Washington Post. La Plata, Md., Nov. 27.—Floyd Armstrong, colored, 26 years old, of Washington, and Blaine Swann, colored, 18 years old, of La Plata, escaped from the Charles County Jail here shortly after midnight by tearing a hole in the roof and climbing to the ground while sixteen other prisoners, locked in other cells, viewed their getaway. Armstrong was convicted here of larceny and sentenced to serve four years in the State penitentiary at Baltimore, where he was to have been taken today to begin a four-year term, according to Chief Deputy Sheriff Robert V. Cooksey, who discovered the escape when he entered the cellroom at 6 o'clock this morning.

Among the others in the jail, almost all of whom were incarcerated for larceny and on minor charges, was Andrew H. Convicted Killer Asks Clemency of Ritchie

Special to The Washington Post. Cumberland, Md., Nov. 27.—Application for pardon or parole has been made by Alvin A. Ricker, this city, to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie. Ricker was convicted at the January term of the circuit court, 1926, on a charge of manslaughter and was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary. Ricker, a taxi cab driver, became involved in an altercation at a road house on the McMullen highway, near the Celanese plant, early Sunday morning, November 15, 1926, with Peter J. Fine Hooked Rugs Are Practical Gifts

The hooked rug is a tribute to the fortitude of American settlers. Hardships and dangers did not rob them of their innate love of beauty. Their rugs became a true medium of art—simple, sincere—the only folk-art of America. These rugs will bring a cheerful note of color into almost any home. French Provincial, English cottage, Spanish, Italian—rooms of such type extend as cordial a welcome to the hooked rug as does the Colonial room.

Only One Bud Makes Bow on Thanksgiving

Usual Holiday Galaxy Is Missing on Account of Mourning.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THANKSGIVING, always a popular day with the debutantes, will boast but one coming-out party this year, since Brig. Gen. and Mrs. B. F. Cheatham have postponed the presentation of their daughter, Miss Virginia Cheatham, because of official mourning for Secretary Good.

Miss Alberta Perley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Perley, will make her curtsy to society at a tea dance which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Perley, will give this afternoon at the Mayflower.

Mr. and Mrs. Perley are formerly of Chicago and the debutante is a granddaughter of Mrs. John West, of Chicago. Miss Perley will have with her for the party her cousin, Miss Eleanor Hill, of Boston, and Miss Mary Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Harris, of Chicago, and niece of Brig. Gen. William W. Harris, now military attaché of the United States Embassy in Paris, but long on duty—and very popular—in Washington.

Happy the hours afternoon receptions are usually prolonged enough to allow of attendance at two or three. For yesterday many wanted to pay honor to Miss Margaretta Bard Wright, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Prince Wright at a reception at their residence, 1812 Twenty-fourth street, and to Miss Caroline Roebeling, daughter of Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, whose debut party was held at Esta Brook, the country home of Col. and Mrs. O'Brien, overlooking Rock Creek Park. There were even several of the same ladies assisting both hostesses, of course, at different hours of the afternoon.

Esta Brook has one of the finest organs in Washington and during the reception there yesterday Mr. Firmin Swinnin, of Wilmington, Del., presented a well-chosen program of organ music. The debutante received with her mother, with palms and tall ferns banked behind them as an effective setting. Mrs. O'Brien's gown was of beige crepe, with appliqué motifs outlining the hem line and the décolletage. And Miss Roebeling wore a picture gown of ivory-tinted velvet, its bodice closely fitted and its skirt dipping smartly in the back. The gown was untrimmed save for a cape collar of exquisite point de Venise lace.

Mrs. O'Brien was assisted by Mrs. James Carroll Frazier, Mrs. Randall Hagner, Mrs. Archibald Davis, Mrs. Brockbridge Long, Mrs. John Washington Davidge, Mrs. Pendleton Mayo, Mrs. Marshall Langhorne, Mrs. Charles Stodd, Mrs. Louis Lehr, Miss Katherine Judge and Miss Lydia Loring.

At Mrs. Wright's flower-decked tea table presided in turn a charming group including Mrs. Peter M. M. Froehlich, Mrs. Thomas F. Bayard, Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, Mrs. James Carroll Frazier, Mrs. Pendleton Mayo, Mrs. John Magruder, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, and Miss Elise Bayard, of Philadelphia. The girls assisting Miss Wright were Miss Gertrude Prochnik, Miss Ella Boston, Miss Victoria Catalani, Miss Eleanor Crain and Miss Laura Tuckerman.

Miss Wright wore a dainty frock of seafoam green fashioned on simple lines, and carried orchids and carnations. In the evening this group of girls and a matching group of young men were entertained at a theater party and a supper at the Club Chanticleer given for Miss Wright by her aunt, the Misses Bayard, of Philadelphia.

Dancing Club Has Premiere Fete in Hotel

Gay Dinner Parties Mark Event at Carlton Last Night.

The Dancing Club, organized under the sponsorship of Mrs. Winslow Van Devanter and Mrs. Robert Randall, had its first dance last evening at the Carlton, in the patio. The original intention was to limit the membership to 80 young married couples, but it is understood that an "elastic clause" has been added to include some of the bachelors always in demand in Washington. Bachelors may join, but unmarried maidens may not be enrolled. Among those who gave dinners last evening preceding the dance were Lieut. and Mrs. Dwight Dickinson, Jr., who had as their guests the First Secretary of the Canadian Legation and Mrs. Hume Wrong, Mrs. Eric Swenson, Commander Ezra Allen, Mr. Rudolph Schoenfeld, Mrs. John H. Magruder, Mrs. Emery Smith and Mr. Arthur Hellen.

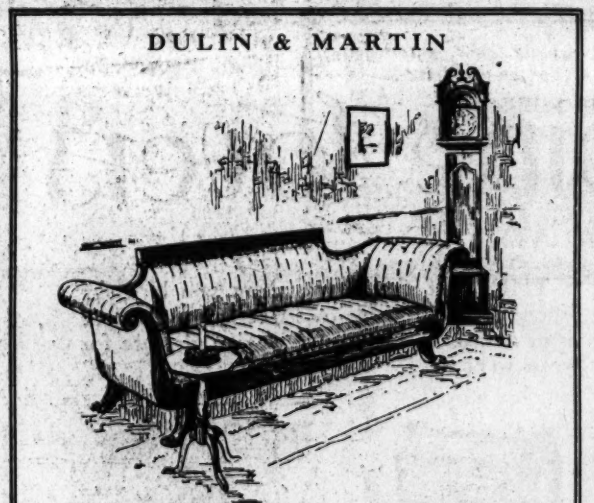

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chappel entertained a party of twelve in their new home at 2881 Woodland drive, and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hamilton, Jr., entertained at a buffet supper in their home on Wyoming avenue when their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kurts and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hopkins, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Elaine Malian, Mr. and Mrs. McCook Dunlop, Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, Mr. and Mrs. James Pennsbaker, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Beach, Miss Sidney Burleson, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Kaufman.

In another group who dined together at the Carlton before the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Ashmead Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Rosa Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Dubose, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pond, Mr. William J. B. Macaulay, secretary of the Irish Free State Legation; Mr. Gwinn Rust, Mr. Robert Stead and Mr. Spottiswood White. This group also celebrated the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Rosa Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel L. Borden and Commander and Mrs. Theodore Wilkinson also entertained at dinners last evening, their guests joining the merry company at the dance.

Mrs. Jean Henry Large, sister of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, is passing a few days in New York, where she was entertained at luncheon Tuesday by her aunt, Mrs. John W. Hittman.

The Commandant of the Army War College and Mrs. Connor will not observe their day at home on Sunday next, but will be at home on the first Sunday of each month thereafter.

Due to the death of the Secretary of War, the officers' hop at Fort Myer, scheduled for December 12, will not be held. The next hop at Fort Myer will be held on January 16.

"MY STEINWAY"
THIS delightful letter, recently received from the conductor, Mr. George Pitt-rich, of the Stadt Theater in Nuernberg, proves how much an artist appreciates being the owner of a Steinway Grand:

"When visited by a friend recently I showed him, with pride, my new Steinway. He was delighted with it and wanted to know the price. I told him and he replied, 'For so much money you could have had an aeroplane.' 'What should I do with an aeroplane?' I retorted. 'I would much rather be the owner of such a wonderful grand! Such an instrument carries me, when I am playing it, into far higher spheres than any aeroplane possibly could do. The grand lifts me far above all earthly things, makes me forget sorrow and trouble, and if I wish to come down no forced landing is required but a smooth, soft, gliding back to earth. I glide along the wings of my imagination with the aid of my Steinway, and neither storm nor splintering of propeller can endanger me. And, if I wish a pilot to accompany me, I take Beethoven, Mozart or another master of tone, who helps me to fly upon my Steinway to heights that are far beyond the clouds and tempests, and where no lightning can hurt me. And all this delight in the comforts of my own home on my beloved STEINWAY!'"

Dr. H.P. Baker Marries Girl From Abroad

Daughter of Noted Artist Is Wed at Cathedral Chapel.

The marriage of Miss Richarda Bahla, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Richard Bahla, of Buckburg, in Schaumburg-Lippe, to Dr. Hugh Potter Baker, took place yesterday afternoon in Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral, with Dr. O. Freeland Fetter officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Prof. Bahla. Following a short honeymoon, Dr. and Mrs. Baker will make their home in Washington. Dr. Baker is manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce. He is a brother of Ray Stannard Baker, well-known writer and author. Dr. Baker was at one time dean of the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University, and later manager of the American Paper and Pulp Association.

Prof. and Mrs. Bahla came to Washington especially for their daughter's marriage. Mrs. Bahla, whose girlhood home was in Buffalo, is widely known as a concert singer in Germany and had the title "court singer" conferred upon her by the Prince of Schaumburg-Lippe.

With the simple ceremony held at the home of the bridegroom's cousin, Mrs. John Gray Simpson, Miss Mildred Sellers Haines was married yesterday to Mr. David Chambers Meerna, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Meerna, of Chevy Chase. The bride is the daughter of the late Maj. and Mrs. John T. Haines and a granddaughter of the late Admiral John J. Almy.

Chevrolet Success

proves increasing popularity of the Six!

Since January 1st, more than a million three hundred thousand six-cylinder Chevrolets have been delivered.

This great volume of business has broken many records—both for Chevrolet and for the automotive industry at large.

It is a greater volume of business than Chevrolet has ever obtained in any previous year.

It has won for Chevrolet for the third consecutive time the coveted honor of first place at the National Automobile Shows.

It has brought undisputed sales leadership to the six-cylinder field for the first time since the automotive industry began. For six-cylinder sales during 1929 will greatly exceed those of any other type.

There are many reasons for the great success of the Chevrolet Six—reasons which every buyer of a low-priced car should pause to consider.

Chevrolet has made available to everyone the marked advantages of six-cylinder performance. Due to the great resources of General Motors, it is a Six in the price range of the four.

It is a thoroughly modern automobile, in design, in performance, and in appearance.

It offers the beauty and comfort of bodies by Fisher.

And it is as economical to operate as a four-cylinder car.

In view of these facts, it is easy to see why the Chevrolet Six is winning such wide public acceptance.

Penn Game With Cornell Upon Radio

McNamee Will Broadcast Philadelphia Contest. McCormack Sings at 10. Big WMAL Program. Post Brevities 8:15.

The University of Pennsylvania-Cornell football contest will be broadcast by WRC and WMAL at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. Graham McNamee will narrate for the National Broadcasting Co., with Ted Husing scheduled to talk for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

After nearly three years' absence from the air, John McCormack, world-famous Irish tenor, will sing for a National-wide radio audience as the featured artist of the Victor hour, to be broadcast at 10 o'clock by the National Broadcasting Co.

Mr. McCormack's program, which he himself has selected, will be composed of many of his most successful numbers. The Victor Thanksgiving program also will include selections by the New Victor Salon Orchestra, under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret, in some of which a large vocal chorus will also be featured. The complete program follows:

"The Victor," a march composition by Nathaniel Shilkret; "Hymn of Thanksgiving," Krumer, with chorus; "Al. Frosco," Hering, with chorus; "The Children," Bachmann; "Bird Song at Eventide," Barrie-Coates; "Kathleen Mavourneen," Crawford; "The Rose Tree," McCormack, accompanied by Edwin Schneider; overture to "Fidelius," Johann Strauss; "Where My Love Lies Dreaming," Foster; medleys from "The Life of the Show," "Southern Humoresque," "Merry Dear" (Londoners); McCormack-Schneider; Bantry Bay; "Malloy," and "Thanks Be to You," Stanley Dickson. Mr. McCormack, and "Syncope Love Song," Scheraga.

A special festival service in observance of Thanksgiving, to include morning prayer, sermon and appropriate music, will be presented by WMAL and the Columbia Broadcasting System at 11 o'clock by the Washington Cathedral, with the Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, presiding. The program will take one hour.

Introducing a radical departure in radio, sending a two-hour broadcast out over the Nation through an electrical transcription, an unusual program will be put through more than forty stations, including WMAL, between 4 and 6 o'clock this afternoon. Great military bands, orchestras, symphonic national ensembles and choruses, none of them ever heard on the air in the United States, will be heard through these electrical transcriptions made in Europe especially for this program. Deems Taylor, American opera and orchestral conductor, will announce it.

England will be represented by His Majesty's Royal Air Force Band, playing the first part of "Merrill England," the second part of "The Rose and the Royal Air Force," and "March Past." The Budapest Gypsies represent Hungary, playing folk songs and an Hungarian tango. France supplies the 40-piece crack band of the Garde Republicaine, through special permission of the French government, playing "La Marseillaise" and "Le Regiment de Sambre et Meuse."

Germany is represented by the National Band selected from its famous regimental bands and by a mixed chorus singing typical German airs and students' songs. Austria sends the famous Lanner Quartet, which plays "Schrammel music" in the cafes of Vienna. Italy furnishes music by an orchestra of 60 drawn from La Scala Opera in Milan and a Brazilian string orchestra from Palermo. Bavaria has a Swisslander orchestra of ten pieces, perhaps the quaintest of all. The program will be closed by John Philip Sousa and his band, playing three familiar marches.

To return to Station WRC, the usual features will be presented, with the National Grand Opera Company singing "Samson et Delilah" at 11 o'clock. The Selbinger program at 9 o'clock will feature James Melton and Elliott Shaw, singing a duet from Bizet's "The Pearl Fishers." "La Paloma" is the number chosen for presentation by the singing violins.

Station WOL will be on the air with the usual programs, beginning at 7:30 o'clock with the musical clock. "Breakfast Brevities" from the Washington Post will be broadcast at 8:15 o'clock. Peggy Clarke, director of the station, will devote her regular period at 10 o'clock to a Thanksgiving Day talk.

A dance program will be featured between 10 o'clock and midnight. Station WJVS will have a Thanksgiving service under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock, followed by the usual Thursday offerings. Walter T. Holt will present his Nordic Mandolin and Chord Club in an hour's program at 10 o'clock.

DAL FIRES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

REFERRING to the plea made by Ira E. Robinson, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, for less jazz and more old-fashioned music over the radio, and wherein he took a rap at "high falutin'" programs, the following letter, signed "A Maryland Farmer," has been received:

"Where does Judge Robinson, of the Radio Commission, get the idea that the farmers don't enjoy jazz or prefer hymns? He must be another Rip Van Winkle who has just waked up, or else he hasn't been on a farm since he was a boy."

"I'm a farmer and have been for ten years and my family is typical of this rural community, yet we would rather hear a smuggy program by Paul Whiteman, even if he is sponsored by a cigarette company, than listen to all the church choir in Christendom."

"And we're not so woefully ignorant of Shakespeare, either, as the Judge inferred the other night in a speech over WMAL. My wife and I both have degrees from Maryland State, and our children have already read some of the best classics, including plays of the Bard of Avon."

CAPT. EDWARD E. O'CONNOR, chief of Engine Company No. 1, K Street, once remarked, deploring the pulling down of the John Jay home and other historic landmarks to make way for modern structures, "There are some things in this world which need a good letting alone."

That is about the way we feel regarding the "Slumber Hour." Apparently the busy NBC program makers are not satisfied with having hit the bull's eye on this but are trying to improve their marksmanship by injecting vocal music.

If all singers were as pleasing as Milton J. Cross, the one they are trying out on this, we should say O.K. But otherwise our advice would be to give Ludwig Laurier and the Slumber Hour a "good letting alone."

NOTICED the reference in "Dial Flashes" to the station director criticizing a Southern station for the use of profanity. A reader writes: "While I am in accord with it about using profane language over the radio, I would like to ask the director if he has ever turned in on Station WHAP in New York City, owned and operated by Franklin Ford, in which the latter takes special delight (without interference from the Radio Commission) to insult the Catholic Church and all connected with it?"

Mr. Ford has his radio station to broadcast during the bitter religious and un-American campaign of 1928 and nothing was done then and nothing is being done now. He retains his station and insults the million Catholics in America. Possibly no one remembers the speech which Billy Sunday made from the First Congregational Church here through the radio station owned and operated by the Fellowship Forum.

"Language used surely was anything but decent. The Radio Commission should investigate such cases, and revoke their licenses. If the commission doesn't have the authority to do this, Congress should give it to them."

Despite the impression which seems to prevail to the contrary, the Rochester Symphony Orchestra will be heard in Washington over WRC only every other Friday afternoon. Its next appearance will be tomorrow and others will follow November 29, December 6 and 13.

There will be concerts by the United States Marine Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Capt. Taylor Branson, on the alternate Friday afternoons when the Rochester organization is not broadcasting.

I WISH you could say a few kind words regarding the good work Station WGY, at Schenectady, did in broadcasting the Stanford University of California football game at Palo Alto, Calif., last Saturday afternoon. A Post reader suggests: "This was more or less of an experiment, inasmuch as instead of handling the account of the game in the usual manner by means of telephone wires, WGY received it from KGO, an Oakland, Calif., short wave and rebroadcast it from Schenectady."

It was a success and seems to open up a new field of rebroadcasting and one, I should imagine, which would be much cheaper than having to pay the expensive tolls of the telephone wires.

"Sitting at my house in Washington early last Saturday evening I very readily picked up the account from WGY direct. I suggest the kind words for WGY because it seems to me they have been more or less 'picked on' and that, along with other pioneer stations, such as KDKA, deserve considerable credit for the service they are continually giving the radio listeners."

Twice a week, beginning at midnight tonight, our time, Thursdays and Tuesdays, Sophie Tucker will "jam 'em up at Station WBBM, Chicago. She is singing over this station exclusively."

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"HAGITARIUS." IF November 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 1:30 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Very favorable influences will be in force on this date, and an optimistic outlook upon life will be taken. Impulsive, but beneficial, moves will be taken, which will offset some losses of the past.

The child born on this November 28 will have an intense nature, and it will need to cultivate self-control of its emotions. It will have exceedingly strong likes and dislikes and no pains will be taken to conceal the nature of its feelings. It will be quite lacking in diplomacy.

You take a most cheerful, optimistic outlook upon life, which enables you to appreciate the beauties of nature and of life in general. You are naturally refined and cultured and are drawn toward the finer things in this world. The spiritual side of your make-up is not asleep, and it has an ennobling, softening effect upon your character. You find a great deal of good in humanity because you are looking for it; your trust, kindness and courtesy to others is usually returned in full. Although you try to live up to your own high ideals, you are tolerant toward others, and you never try to force your views upon those who disagree with you. You never take a "holier than thou" attitude. A humanitarian at heart, you are an experiment, inasmuch as instead of handling the account of the game in the usual manner by means of telephone wires, WGY received it from KGO, an Oakland, Calif., short wave and rebroadcast it from Schenectady.

It was a success and seems to open up a new field of rebroadcasting and one, I should imagine, which would be much cheaper than having to pay the expensive tolls of the telephone wires.

INTERPRETS the MODE

A stunning afternoon frock of gray panne velvet with insertions of light blue georgette, lavishly embroidered. (Courtesy of the Maison Poiret, Paris.)

Paris, Nov. 27. AS I cast my eye around my studio, Paris on the Seine, right this very moment—I am struck by the fact that I see quite an assortment of odd shoes.

Yes, they're all wearable and I wear them all when the mood strikes me—I just never noticed before how many countries, speaking also-ly, could be represented in one shoe wardrobe.

There, on a little tabouret, next to the large gold inlaid tortoise-shell Spanish comb, is a quaint pair of Mexican what-you-call 'em, I bought them in Mazatlan, Mexico. There, on the top of the fireplace, are bright blue-green Chinese slippers bought in New York's Chinatown. Yonder, on the low wide, arched-top tabouret are wooden Japanese shoes my interesting mamma brought with her from Japan 30 years ago.

Hanging on the wall are pointed-toe Hindu slippers that a lovely dark-eyed and slender-fingered Hindu princess once gave me, and in my bedroom are pale blue satin and white fur-lined Russian slippers that were gifts also.

It's fun collecting odd shoes, and treating them as sort of semiousness—wearing them when the mood strikes you and otherwise putting them about your whatnots from various countries.

If you can tell me why Poiret's gray velvet afternoon frock, illustrated for you today, reminds me of things Persian, you will be telling me something I don't know! Perhaps it is just that little Poiret touch of the unusual—the insertion of light blue georgette at the neck, the belt and the gold thread embroidery and red, blue and green stones from the elbows down, but Persian or not it is a most graceful and lovely dress, especially for a blonde.

Black stockings, like black gloves, are sufficiently new to our sight to make us stop and look and think. Both have the quality of being synonymous with either chic or dowdiness.

Black stockings, in order to escape the latter, have to be a better quality than it is absolutely necessary to wear in lighter colored stockings. And black gloves, as we have told you before, must be worn with just the right type of garment.

So many nice ladies said they liked 'em! So many nice ladies asked for 'em or that one! So we just up and collected a whole family of 20 of our favorite we designed that have been in the corners of our drawers for the last year or so, and assembled them into a really unusual lead. For a stamped, self-addressed envelope you can send for 20 Day-ray designs, and the directions for enlarging them, transferring them and using them for embroidery.

Oh, we want to mention again that you'll find it well worth while to look for the weekly Day-ray fashion letter in The Washington Post each Sunday. An Revolt!

Bridge Brevities, a pamphlet, by Milton C. Work, the world's pre-eminent authority on Auction Bridge, free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it.

Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2c stamp), self-addressed return envelope.

Read Mr. Work's articles on Auction and Contract. Every day exclusively in The Washington Post.

IN the above hand we were playing Auction Bridge and I sat West. South bid one. No Trump which obtained the contract. Had we been playing Contract, South with a count of 13 would have bid one No Trump, and North with a count of 14 would have jumped to three No Trumps.

As I had only one four-card suit, my lead was simplicity itself. I opened that perforated, leading my fourth best Spade, the Five. Dummy played the Four, my partner, the King, and South the Deuce. My partner returned the Trey. South played the Eight, the Nine, and dummy won with the Ace. Dummy then led the King and Queen of Clubs, and I permitted both of them to win. A third Club forced my Ace and, keeping that South had Queen and Ten of my suit, I then led my Ten of Hearts through dummy's Jack, my partner having discarded the Trey of Diamonds on the third Club, showing (as dummy had the Deuce) that he was not signaling in Diamonds.

FORGET THE MOONSHINE. Mrs. E. E. writes: Is it true that sleeping in the moonlight or in the direct rays of the moon would cause insanity? When I was a child I heard a great deal about this belief, but lately have been wondering whether it was just superstition or truth.

Three years ago I slept with my bed at such an angle that whenever there was a moon it would shine on me as it came into the room. I slept that way for over a year. During the last few years I have noticed that my once marvelous memory seems to be failing me. I am perfectly sane; it is simply my memory that I am worried about.

REPLY.

While you are at the job, forget your worries about the moon. Train your memory anew. If need be, find another cause for your present difficulty. Getting the moon out of medicine has not been easy.

Pitt-Penn State Game Shares Spotlight in the East.

Tradition of Cornell-Penn Battle Draws Crowd of 75,000.

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Five of the foremost unbeaten college football teams hope to have their appetites for Thanksgiving feasts stimulated by victories tomorrow.

All the facts and figures, so far as they can be relied upon, point to decisive triumphs by Pittsburgh over Penn State, Tulane over Louisiana State and Utah over the Utah Aggies. Tennessee is also a strong favorite to beat Kentucky and keep around the top of the Southern Conference heap, but the memory of a scoreless tie with the Wildcats last year may haunt the Volunteers when they clash on the gridiron at Lexington.

St. Mary's, the fifth unbeaten outfit, enters the strong University of Oregon Eleven at San Francisco in the outstanding holiday battle on the Pacific Coast. St. Mary's has not even been scored on so far, being checked only by California in a scoreless tie, but figures to be pressed to gain any decided edge over the web-footers from the North.

Here are the records these five unbeaten teams seek to embellish:

Team	Won	Tied	Points
Pittsburgh	8	0	270
Tulane	8	0	252
Penn State	8	0	257
Utah	6	0	183
St. Mary's	7	0	167

The games involving these teams are the most important, so far as the somewhat debatable claims to national championship honors are concerned, but traditional contests occupy the major part of the Thanksgiving program and will attract equally as keen interest.

There is traditional rivalry as well as financial interest in such a game as Pittsburgh-Penn State, which may draw close to 70,000 to the huge Pitt Stadium, but the flavor of a long-standing feud will attract around 10,000 to the University of Oregon game at San Francisco.

The big six championship will be settled in Nebraska's favor if the Huskers do the expected and beat Iowa State. Missouri and Oklahoma meanwhile crash at Columbia, while the Kansas Aggies step out of the conference to tackle the rugged Marquette Eleventh at Milwaukee.

The big game of the week in the Southwestern Conference is slated for Saturday, between Texas Christian and Southern Methodist, with the holiday features Texas against A. M., as well as Arkansas against Oklahoma Aggies.

Jones Uses Reserves, Clouding Make-Up of First Team.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Capt. Bill Jones created two first string eleven today, and sent each in turn against a strong platoon in a long scrimmage, perhaps the hardest work of the week, in preparation for the Army's annual battle with Notre Dame at the Yankee Stadium in New York on Saturday. By inserting reserve players into the two first-string line-ups, the Army coach was able to drill just what he wanted in the style of attack he expects to employ against the Irish.

A dummy defensive scrimmage tentatively scheduled for tomorrow will end the season's work on the plains. The team will depart for New York on Friday in time to have a brief rehearsal at the Travers Island Field of the New York Athletic Club, where the squad will make its headquarters until just prior to game time. No work will be attempted in the Yankee Stadium.

Defensive Work Indulged In.

Some defensive practice was indulged in here today, and this revealed that the Cadets line has some distance to travel before being ready for Saturday's game. Perry was practically the only man who stood out on defense.

Both offensively and defensively, the second first-string line organized today seemed to have an edge over the real first line. The second combination stood its ground determinedly in guarding its forward passers.

The first line on the defense was made up of Messinger, Perry, Hillinger, Lazar, Humber, Price and Carlmark. The second included Malloy, Spangler, Trice, Miller, Suarez, Farham and Kenny. Carver, Glatly, Murrell and Cagle were the first back field, and Gibner, Harris, Piper and Hutchinson, the second.

Coast Group to Name Grid Champion Dec. 16

Stanford University, Calif., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Prof. William B. Owen, of the Stanford Law School, president of the Pacific Coast Conference, announced here today that the conference football championship will be named at a meeting in San Francisco December 16.

The conference does not recognize percentages and when the season ends four teams will be tied for first place in number of games lost. Stanford, California, Southern California, Washington State and Oregon are tied at present, but either the S. C. Trojans or the W. S. C. Cougars will be eliminated in this Saturday's game between the teams in Los Angeles.

Byrd Likely to Keep Under Wraps for Terror Clash.

By JACK ESPEY.

THIS is the day when some people eat turkey and others, namely the Catholic University football players, partake of the hides of their local rivals the gridders of George Washington University. Today's feast, if we accept the term from Brookland Catholics, will consist of two courses, or the freshmen and varsity games, the first of which will commence at 12:30 o'clock in the spacious Brookland bowl.

This annual battle of Brookland, the tenth since the two institutions resumed warfare after the World War, doesn't seem as attractive as those of past seasons because of its prospects of turning into a rout even more one-sided than the 1928 game, which Catholic won 40 to 8. But the whole afternoon's program, taking in the preliminary game between the varsity and the freshmen, promises a well-matched yearling team, both of which are powerful, should prove worthy of the fans' patronage. The freshmen contest, in fact, is about as much of a drawing card as the varsity clash, especially in the eyes of the rival student bodies.

G. W. Last Best Catholics

In 1924, George Washington's varsity, defeated in all of its seven games to date, will seek a win over Catholic.

Hopkins Has One Victory.

Only once since the season started has the Baltimore club escaped a sock on the button, that exception being the defeat, Randolph-Macon. Last Saturday Hopkins bowed to St. John's of Annapolis by 33 to 0. Following are the teams' 1929 records to date.

Association Box Ace Bought by Yankees

St. Paul, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Americus, leading pitcher in the American Association last year, with 22 victories, has been sold to the New York American League Baseball Club. Poll is a right-hander.

Miss Wilson Golf Ace, To Wed Chicago Man

Chicago, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The engagement of Virginia Wilson, one of Chicago's first ranking golf stars, to Thomas C. Denney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Denney, of Chicago and Pasadena, was announced today. No date has been set for the wedding.

Nebraska May Land Big Six Title Today

Kansas City, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Tomorrow's grand finale in Big Six football finds three teams in position to walk off the field with titular honors for the 1929 season, and one of them, Nebraska, if breaks are right, can announce its second consecutive championship. Or the Cornhuskers may tie for first position.

Fans Pay $50 to See Army vs. Notre Dame

New York, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The demand for tickets at almost any price to see the Army and Notre Dame game this Saturday at the Yankee Stadium breaks all records for sporting events. The prices range from $5 to $50, and the demand is expected to increase to about $60.

Drill Centered on Stopping Red Cagle.

Most of this week's practice has been centered on the problem of stopping a defense for the Army's ace, Red Cagle. Half back, one of the second-string line backs, adopted Cagle's role all week and was stopped consistently. Stopping "Red" in person is something else, the Notre Dame coaches admit, despite their outward confidence.

Irish Draw 570,000 For 1929 Grid Season

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—When Notre Dame's championship-bound team meets the Army in New York Saturday, they will have shattered all records for football crowds in the season.

With 70,000 expected for the Army battle, the total estimated attendance for nine games will be 570,000. The Southern California game at Soldier Field, Chicago, drew the largest single day's throng—123,000.

Strong Attack Overwhelms Central

Keefe Runs Wild as Devitt Line Opens Great Holes.

Scores First Goal on Plunge, Skirts End for Second.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

A HIGH-POWERED Devitt, Fred Keefe, strikingly demonstrated his pronounced superiority over one of the best high schools teams in the city yesterday when it took "The Central" to a certain extent, camp, 19 to 0, to spill and brighten the day for some 4,000 Central and Devitt students, respectively, who gathered to watch the proceedings of the annual "C" Club game, at the Pleasant Stadium.

Maybe the day wouldn't have been so completely ruined for the followers of the Central team if the Devitt aggregation hadn't uncovered a human battering ram possessing flying feet and 171 pounds of devastating force in a certain line. Keefe, half back of the McNamara-coached team, who monopolized the offensive story of the game, the greater brilliancy than the acknowledged ace of the high schools showed at any time, and was the driving force behind the winner's onslaught throughout the fray.

Central Fails to Stop Keefe.

Keefe was high unstopable against the Blue and White combination and the way he ripped the Central line when he was tackled, Keefe was rarely halted until thrown to the ground by half a dozen Centralites and it was no uncommon sight to see him traveling at high speed with two or three tacklers wrapped about his body. The Central team, however, after snatching a pass from Keefe, a teammate, that put the Devitt team in a position to score, the Central line, from which position the same Keefe tore through for the initial score on two plays later.

The Devitt Team played a harder, more smothering game and its powerful attack had the Blue and White Team reeling, causing the retirement of its two best players, Larry Pinckney, biggest of the Mount Pleasant team, was forced to the sidelines early in the second half with a severe cut over his right eye, and a severe bruise on his nose. A high-ear was removed from the line-up, from which position the same Keefe tore through for the initial score on two plays later.

Devitt Forward Line Well Drilled.

McNamara placed a fast-charging and well-drilled line in the field, the prep school, whose vicious rushing on the Central forwards stopped them in their tracks, while most of the attempts at passing of the Central team were prevented by the Devitt players, who rushed upon him before he could get his passes away.

A million quarts of blood, probably gained more ground than any man on the field with the exception of Keefe, who carried his share of the ball carrying. And throughout the contest, the Devitt line opened up holes big enough for the runner to slip through, so that it was not difficult for the bullet-like Keefe and Abrahamson to catapult through.

For a time during the early portions of the game, the Central Team gave signs of fighting an even battle, blurring the prepman to almost a standstill throughout the first half, at the end of which the score was only 6-0. Numerous penalties hurt the Central team, and one of the few Central first downs was made via this route.

Pass Over Line Ends Central Threat.

The nearest the losers ever came to scoring was within the first ten minutes of play when "Whitey" Cummings, brilliant passer recently revealed at Central, tossed the pigskin 10 yards to Brandt, who ran to the Devitt 12-yard line. But when a toss from the same player went over the goal line, the game was ended.

Devitt's first score came midway in the second quarter when Keefe went over from the 10-yard line after a steady march from the Prepman's own 32-yard line. The rushes of Keefe and a long pass from Keefe to the former accounted for the greater portions of the 70-yard trek.

Although trailing only 6 to 0, the Central team appeared a whiff of a team when it came on the field at the start of the second half, and the Devitt Eleven had little trouble in immediately ringing up its second score soon after receiving the kickoff. A 60-yard dash by the players for the initial score on two plays later.

4 1/2 Yds. Average Rush Of Purdue Back Field

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The punch that landed back field Lakeland in winning the 1929 Western Conference football championship is shown in final statistics on the yardage gained by the "four rivers."

In five Big Ten games, the regular Bolshacker back field, composed of Ralph Welch, Glenn Harmon, Alex Tatum and John White, carried the ball from scrimmage a total of 234 yards for an average of 4.7 yards per attempt.

Harmon was called upon to carry the ball 80 times and he gained 468 yards for an average of 5.8 yards per attempt. Welch, in 67 tries, totaled 266 yards, an average of 3.9 yards per attempt.

Ed Caraway, end, had a start to a brilliant scoring record, but a broken collar bone, suffered in the Chicago game, forced him out until the Indiana game at the close of the season. On three end around plays in the Chicago and Michigan games, he gained 80 yards, 18.6 yards per attempt.

FIVE D. C. SCHOOL ELEVEN'S SEE ACTION TODAY

Two Contests Are Listed Here

G.U. Preps Play Newman; Gonzaga to Face Alumni.

Tech, Emerson and
Eastern to Battle
Out of Town.

Of the five local scholastic eleven slated to see action today, two of the group will play their contests on home grounds with both of the games scheduled for morning. Coach Orrell Mitchell's Gonzaga Eleven is down on the books to oppose an alumni team from the same institution at the Gonzaga Field, thirty-fourth street and Benning road, northeast, at 10 o'clock, while Eddie Brooks' Georgetown Prep team will take its old rival the Newnan Military Academy of Lakewood, N. J., at Garrett park a half hour later.

Both Local Contests Promising.

Both games here should be interesting enough to the followers of the respective schools, as each eleven will be meeting a foe over which it is most anxious to score. The Newnan team, which comes to battle Georgetown Prep, is the same eleven which battled the Garrett Parkers to a 13-13 draw last year at the New Jersey stadium, and both teams will arrive to break that deadlock today. Georgetown Prep has an especially bright season this year, having registered three victories against one defeat and one tie. The only loss was received as the hands of the strong Gonzaga team which won out, 6-0.

The Gonzaga-Alumni game also promises to be attractive with another strong Purple Eleven meeting a group of graduates who already have proven their worth on college gridiron. Five Mount St. Mary's players in Tom Farrell, Edmondson, Tom Drew, Tracy and Lynch will be in the line-up, and will play against the regular Gonzaga team on Sunday, December 2.

Eastern Team En Route

Eastern gridironers left yesterday afternoon for York with a full squad of Blue and White performers who are hoping to repeat their 20-0 victory of last year over the Pennsylvania team. A large delegation of Eastern players is expected to be on hand to cheer their favorites to a triumph in the team's closing game of the season. With the exception of Jimmy Hayden, full back, who is troubled with a Charley horse, the team is in perfect condition. Clow probably will take Hayden's position.

Army Medics Triumph After Two Extra Periods

Two extra periods were necessary before the Army Medics could assert their supremacy over the Washington A. C. Five by a 37-35 score. The game was played in the Fort Myer gymnasium and marked the second triumph for the Medics over the Washington team this season. The end of regular time the score was 27-14 and the first extra period was concluded with the score 35-14. The second extra period was necessary to decide the game, as the score was 35-35 at the end of the first extra period. The Medics won the game 37-35.

CRESCENT FIVE WINS.

Crescent A. C. captured its second game in seven days last night, when it defeated the Peersless Five at Central High school gym, 24-18. The win was the second in two games for the Crescents.

COACHES TO NOMINATE ALL-STAR DIXIE PLAYERS

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—W. D. Funkhouser, secretary of the Southern Conference, today named the coaches of 23 institutions in the organization, nomination blanks for the players to represent Southern and Southern all-star teams in a charity football game to be played in Atlanta, New Year's day. Dr. Funkhouser held the nominations open to December 6.

Grid Coach Honored With Mexico U. Degree

Mexico City, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The Mexican government has voted to confer an honorary degree on Reginald Root, football coach and former Yale player, in recognition of his service in character building at the university and the tremendous personal popularity he gained while coaching the American college sports.

CENTENNIALS DRILL.

Centennials will practice at the Ford and New York Avenue playgrounds today at 12 o'clock. All are requested to report. In a raffle, Frank Kruhn, Centennial player, won an 18-pound turkey.

TWO SOCCER TENNESSEE AND TULANE RISK CLAIMS TO SOUTHERN TITLE

Games on Program

Uniteds and Concorda Hosts to Baltimore Reans Today.

Volts to Meet Test in Kentucky Game; Louisiana State Foe of Tulane; Old Rivals in Battles.

TWO INTERESTING GAMES WILL FEATURE THE SOCCER PROGRAM IN THIS SECTION TODAY.

The British Uniteds will take the Fairview Rovers of Baltimore, on field No. 2 of the Monument Grounds, starting at 2 o'clock.

The Concorda team meets the Baltimore Democrats on the Shady Oak, Md., also starting at 2 o'clock.

Both of the Baltimore teams are highly rated. The Fairview Rovers will test the 1929-30 British Uniteds, who won the Washington championship last year and who are undefeated to date this season. The Uniteds will start a veteran line-up. Ben Kall will referee the game.

Concorda in Good Form.

The Concorda have been playing a snappy brand of ball this season, and the Washington Soccer League Club is aiming for a victory over the Baltimoreans today.

The invasion of this territory and are anxious to make a good showing. Ed Cruse will referee.

Walter Reed's boosters will swing into action on Saturday in a Service League game with the Fort Washington team, to be played on the latter's grounds at Fort Washington, Md.

TULANE, GA., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Southern conference championship hopes of Tennessee and Tulane will be at stake tomorrow in a brace of games which overshadow even the series of traditional battles programmed as the climax of the Dixie gridiron season.

More than a quarter million followers of the game will fill the stands of the South to view the final features of fifteen conference teams, a number of Southern intercollegiate Athletic Association eleven and other football machines.

Tennessee, bounding along toward the conference title, pits its strength against Kentucky, the defeated, still powerful Wildcat at Lexington.

Tulane, also with a chance at the championship, hurles its great machine against the Tigris, Louisiana State—the final obstacle between the Green Wave and a perfect record.

Tulane closes its season tomorrow, while Tennessee must face the South Carolina Gamecocks on December 7.

Before gridiron taps are sounded at Knoxville, the Georgia Tech-Auburn engagement in Atlanta will mark the third.

Other games and conference teams renewing football rivalries that have existed for twenty years or more.

Headlining the series is the game between the Georgia Tech and Auburn, which brings together the South's oldest gridiron enemies.

SHIP SOLD UNDER HAMMER TO PAY SAILORS' WAGES

Steamer Mayflower Brings $1,000 at Court Sale After Bid of $500.

ALEXANDRIA MEN ARE PURCHASERS OF CRAFT

Vessel Was Formerly Known as Indian Head; Had Two Mishaps.

Credited with being the first in the District of Columbia to meet seamen's wages, the excursion steamer Mayflower, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon was sold at public auction at its wharf at the end of N street southwest, for $1,000.

The boat, sold under an order of United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder to cover $1,500 alleged to be due to employees of the craft for wages was purchased by W. L. Davis and Leroy Beach, both of Alexandria, Va., who did not make public their plans for the vessel.

First Offer Is $500.

The winning bid came after an initial offer of $500 had been made by another prospective buyer to Adam Wechsler, local auctioneer, who announced that the sale awaited only ratification by the Federal Court in conformity with the law governing auctions of this character. Marvin F. Blachoff, Washington attorney, represented the complaining seamen.

The Mayflower was owned by the Atlantic Utility Corporation, of Washington, incorporated in the State of Delaware, which was headed by C. R. Ward, first vice president and acting president since the resignation about June 1 of Edward Dean, Washington real estate operator. J. W. Whiting was general manager of the organization.

Suffered Two Mishaps.

The Mayflower last summer ran as an excursion steamer to Colonial Beach and on one of its trips on the Potomac River, it encountered difficulty on its initial trip last summer when its engine failed to function properly and it was forced to return to Washington. It was then towed to the yard where it was repaired.

During the summer of 1927 the same boat operated here as an excursion steamer under the name of the Indian Head, the appellative, which it was known principally in Maryland waters where it had operated from Baltimore.

Small F Street Blaze Causes Traffic Delay

A small blaze of undetermined origin, which kept a crowd of motorists lining the curb for a block or more and halted downtown traffic in one direction for half an hour, resulted in small damage shortly after 6 o'clock last night to the Boston Beauty Shop on the third floor of 1329 F street northwest.

Firemen responding to the alarm found the fire gaining rapid headway in the rear of the establishment, but quickly brought it under control with hand extinguishers and a single hose before it could spread to the floor above, occupied by Dr. A. H. Parham, and the floor below, occupied by the Equitable Purchasing Co.

Man Hits Car of Major's Wife, Released on Bond

Alfred Le Croix, 44 years old, a contractor of Somerset, Md., was arrested by Fourteenth Precinct police on charges of reckless driving and released on $25 bond following a collision between the automobile he was driving at 8 o'clock last night at Wisconsin avenue and Thirtieth street northwest and a Buick sedan operated by Mrs. Gladys Lyman, 35 years old, of 3608 S street northwest.

She is the wife of Maj. Albert Lyman, U. S. A., of damage of $60 to the car was reported.

Burglar Obtains $31 From Cash Register

Gaining entrance to the Taylor Korman Oil Co., at Eighth and L streets southeast, early yesterday, thieves looted the cash register of $31. The robbery was discovered by James W. Bell, manager of the company. The identity of a suspect was disclosed to detectives and a search was instituted.

Robert Band told police that a third man, the rear door of his grocery store at F and M streets northeast, stole $6 from the cash register and escaped.

Plans Are Completed For Big Circus Revue

WASHINGTON-ATLANTA AIR LINES PLANNED

Pittairn Company to Open Passenger Service From Capital Soon.

The announcement was made last night by Col. Paul Henderson, an official of the Curtiss Wright Co., parent company of both Pittairn Aviation, Inc., and Transcontinental Air Transport Co. He declared that he was not in a position at this time to name a date for the inauguration of the service, to state the type of planes to be used, possible stops along the route or any of the numerous other details.

THINKS BILL WILL PASS

The fact that Washington is a port of call for its mail planes on the New York-to-Atlanta route, coupled with the fact that the winter season is rounding into full swing at Miami, led to the belief that the company will make known its plans here shortly for the early inauguration of the service.

Washington at present boasts only a single regular air passenger service. The Clifford Ball Air Lines operates from Washington to Pittsburgh and Cleveland on one trip each day.

Eastern Air Express, in the early part of September, opened an air line between New York and Washington to Miami and Tampa, using three Bellanca biplanes. It was reported never to have completed a round trip. Several attempts also were made to operate a service between Washington and New York, but these also have been given up. A line also operated a service between Washington and Norfolk, Va., but this also was abandoned.

Ohio Girls Will Meet.

A get-together meeting of the Ohio Girls Club will be held at the Thomas Circle Club, 228 Massachusetts avenue tomorrow night. Saturday night they will hold their Thanksgiving dance in the ball room of the Colonial Hotel.

U. S. ASKED FOR SHELLY'S RECORD BY ARMY ENGINEER BOARD OF INQUIRY

Idea Embodies Construction of Boulevard Along Water Street.

ESTIMATED COST SET AT NEARLY $3,691,000

Report of Indorsement of Park and Planning Commission.

Beautification of the Washington waterfront along the Potomac River is recommended by Chief Engineer Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown in a report forwarded yesterday to the office of the acting Secretary of War for transmission to Congress. The proposal embodies many improvements and would cost approximately $3,691,000, to be paid by the Federal and District governments.

Construction of a boulevard along Water street, the entire length of the harbor, which will be further beautified by numerous small parks and landscaped effects is planned in the report. Construction work will be completed in the next year. Under present estimates, the Federal Government would pay $2,392,280 and the District $1,298,720.

It is expected that this outlay will be offset by anticipated rental of the wharfage, which will be set by the office of the Secretary of War.

Plan Is Indorsed.

The plan has received the approval and indorsement of the District Commissioners and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Sizable portions of the plans drawn by the United States Army Engineers office.

That the waterfront on the north side of the Washington Channel be improved on the pier and slip system. That direct railway interchange facilities be created.

That beautification be secured through development of a boulevard along Water street, the entire length of the harbor, which will be further beautified by numerous small parks and landscaped effects is planned in the report.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

AUNT PHOEBE FEARSALL, from her farm in Virginia, had sent Luella a turkey gobbler for Thanksgiving Day.

"Some of our friends invited us to dinner, but we had planned on having other folks out to the house. At the last moment they phoned they couldn't come—and a fortunate stroke that, as it proved afterward."

Anyhow, what could be better than Thanksgiving Day dinner at home—especially with a turkey that came from the "old country" and Luella's excellent dressing in the culinary art.

To what our appetites we took a brisk walk over the country. Luella, counting all the things we have to be thankful for, marveling at the colorings of nature. The world is at its loveliest with Indian summer here.

At noon we came back to the old manse—or the Old Man's, as Luella lovingly calls the place—and I turned no time basting the turkey. I understand it takes several hours to cook one of these birds.

Finally I saw Luella occupied with some sewing in a far corner of the living room. Luella, looking up at me, said: "What, dear?"

"Where's the turkey," I asked. "The turkey Aunt Phoebe sent?" "Oh, do you want to see it?" she asked, somewhat surprised, as if any man would want to see a turkey on Thanksgiving Day.

"Certainly I want to see it!" my mouth watering at the very thought of some sewing in a far corner of the living room.

FEDERAL PRISONER SOUGHT BY ROVER IN SCRIVENER CASE

Habeas Corpus Proceedings Start to Bring Him Back to Capital.

MAN ATTORNEY WANTS NOW IN LEAVENWORTH

Witness Identified Gun Near Detective's Body as His Own, Claim.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday instituted habeas corpus proceedings designed to return Henry Miller Moore, colored, to Washington for the grand jury investigation into the death of Detective Sergeant Arthur Scrivener, who was found dead from gunshot wounds in a Georgetown alley three years ago. Moore is now serving a five-year sentence at Leavenworth on a charge of housebreaking and larceny.

The Negro, who was sentenced on November 12, 1926, is said to have identified in the United States attorney's office at that time a pistol found near Scrivener's body as one which he had thrown into an ash can shortly before his arrest.

One Link in Inquiry.

Moore has been returned to Washington is but a link in the investigation which Rover hopes will solve once and for all the time the question whether Scrivener killed himself, as the police claim, or was murdered, as the coroner's jury asserted. Rover intends to question every one who knows anything about the Scrivener mystery. He called six witnesses called for Tuesday.

Other Witnesses Called.

Others called are: Sgt. M. E. Purp and Private H. A. Reed, of the Seventh Precinct; B. W. Thompson, of the Detective Bureau; Dr. E. K.
